RESTRICTIONS ON PARKING PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

New Traffic Ordinance Enacted: Provisions Are Now In Force

A new traffic ordinance supplanting former ordinances, amendments and resolutions which have been in force since 1923, was passed by a unanimous vote of the city council last evening after members of the council had submitted proposals and Mayor George Dixon had conferred with Chief Van Bibber of the police department and Chief William Mitchell of the fire department. City Attorney Martin J. Gannon embodied some of the features of the old ordinance with suggestions filed with the mayor in the drafting of a complete new ordinance.

The restricted area outlined in the new ordinance covers the following streets in the business district: First street from Galena to Highland avenue; East First street, Galena to Ottawa avenue; Hennepin avenue from River to Second street; Peoria avenue from River to Second street; North Galena avenue from Water to Boyd street; North Peoria avenue from Water to Boyd street; Commercial Alley from Ottawa to Highland avenue.

No Double Parking.

No double parking is permitted on any street within the city, according to the new ordinance. U turns on Galena avenue and First street, Galena and Second, Galena and River, Galena and Water street, Hennepin avenue and First street, Peoria avenue and First street, Peoria avenue and River street, Peoria avenue and Water street, are prohibited. Parking on either the Peoria or Galena avenue bridges is not permitted and drivers of automobiles are not permitted to pass another vehicle going in the same direction on the Galena avenue bridge. The chief of police is authorized and empowered to establish special parking spaces in the downtown district and to work the paying to eliminate parking within 15 feet of any fire hydrant. One hour parking in the business district is permitted except from 6 to 11 o'clock on Saturday evenings when the parking time is not to exceed 30 minutes. Penalties for violation of the ordinance are fixed at a minimum of $1 and a maximum of $200.

Mayor George Dixon called the attention of the council to a communication which he had received from the Superintendent of Drivers of Pickwick Greyhound buses through the necessity for strict observance of city traffic rules under penalty of fine in police court and disciplining from the office of the superintendent.

Dog Catcher Unnamed.

An amendment to the city ordinance providing for a dog catcher was passed by the council, which provided for the compensation of such officer. According to the members of the council such officer has not as yet been secured. One applicant secured another position and office of official city dog catcher still remains unfilled.

Action was deferred one week on an ordinance providing for the vacating of inlet avenue from Ninth to Springfield streets by the city.

Several applications for soft drink and billiard parlor license were granted and the regular semi-monthly bills were allowed.

A resolution adhering to the scheme for the improvement of Highland avenue between First and Second street was adopted. The estimated cost of the improvement is $6,200 and provides for the building of a reinforced concrete paving and sidewalks.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS WILL HAVE NO PART IN CELEBRATION AT BIRTHPLACE OF A. LINCOLN

Nashville, Tenn., July 22—(AP)—Citing modern studies of Abraham Lincoln to confirm a widespread southern opinion of him in the Civil War era, the United Confederate Veterans declined to participate in a scheduled celebration at his birthplace in Hodgenville, Ky., October 4, 5 and 6.

In reply to an invitation from Governor Flen D. Sampson of Kentucky, to join the Union veterans in the event, Commander-in-Chief C. A. Desaussure of the grey-clad survivors, said that "of all the characters before the world, Mr. Lincoln is easily among those whom I would least wish my children, grandchildren, and great grandsons to emulate."

Harry Rene Lee, Nashville, Adjutant General of the Veterans' organization, yesterday announced the invitation had been rejected.

General Desaussure said he thought he saw in the proposed celebration "an effort to discount or offset the recently developed emergence of a true portrait of Mr. Lincoln which is not at all to his credit and which denies to him the God-like nature and qualities with which interested persons have defied him."

Big Brewery In New York City Seized

New York, July 22—(AP)—Federal prohibition agents today were in possession of the five-story Phoenix brewery, which they raided last night under the personal supervision of Administrator Andrew McCampbell.

More than 30 agents, armed with bars, sledge hammers and battering rams, descended on the plant, at 10th Avenue and 25th Street, which they value at $1,000,000, and forced their way in after a half hour's pounding on various doors and brick walls.

Fifty employees escaped while the agents were entering. Four men remained behind to submit to arrest. The brewery was described by the raiders as the most complete modern in this area.

There were thousands of barrels neatly stacked and well oiled and polished machinery, automatic fillers and refrigerating machinery.

In an outer office, agents found a complete bookkeeping system with a ledger for each borough in New York City. These books, containing customers' lists, were seized for examination.

Sea Monster In Lake Erie Proves To Be Big Python

Sandusky, O., July 22—(UP)—Scientists and zoologists today sought to identify an 18-foot snake brought ashore from Lake Erie by two Cincinnati cement salesmen, who said they captured the serpent while fishing from a rowboat in Sandusky Bay.

Harold L. Madison, Curator of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History viewed the snake and told the United Press it was an Indian python.

The curator said pythons could live in water, but would have to come to the surface often for air. The snake either escaped from a zoo or was deliberately placed in the lake, he declared.

The snake was described as being 18 feet long and weighing approximately 100 pounds.

Capture of the reptile ended reports of a "huge sea monster" in the lake. The reports first were circulated last week when fishermen told of seeing the "beast."

It said it sprayed water from its mouth and tail. Describing the capture to authorities, the salesmen, Clifford Wilson and Francis Bagenstose, said they were en route home from the Shrine convention in Cleveland, and stopped to fish in the bay. They rented a boat and rowed out about 500 yards from shore, they said.

"We had just cast our lines when the serpent raised its head from the water near the boat," Wilson said. "I grabbed an oar and struck it, thinking it meant to attack us. The snake rolled over in the water and healed it aboard and ashore."

According to Curator Madison, the salesmen risked their lives in capturing the snake which he declared was large and strong enough to crush a horse. He said he doubted stories of the capture. There are no marks to indicate it was struck on the head, he declared.

Wilson claimed ownership of the snake today, and said he probably would take it to Cincinnati, and maybe sell it.

CLEMENCY APPEAL FOR FALL STUDIED BY JUSTICE DEPT.

Former Cabinet Member Has Made No Personal Plea To Govt.

Washington, July 22—(AP)—Although Albert B. Fall has made no personal application to President Hoover for clemency an exception has been made of the former cabinet member's case and the Justice Department has undertaken a study of it.

The exception was made from a presidential ruling that petitions for pardons must be signed by the applicants before they are to be considered. However, the Justice Department began collecting facts upon which a recommendation for or against clemency might be made on the basis of petitions from Senators Cutting and Bratton of New Mexico and that state's legislative branches.

These petitions were sent to the White House and referred to the Justice Department.

Only the routine investigation would be made, Attorney General Mitchell said, adding that efforts were being made to obtain opinions from the men who prosecuted and sentenced the former Secretary of the Interior as to what, if any, clemency should be shown.

Mitchell also said the rule generally compelling a prisoner to serve a third of his sentence before his petition would be considered need not necessarily apply to Fall.

Fall yesterday became prisoner 6991 in the New Mexico state penitentiary. Under his conviction in connection with the naval oil reserve leases, he was sentenced to a year and a day in prison and fined $100,000.

MUST CHANGE HABITS

Sante Fe, N. M., July 22—(UP)—With a convicted murderer for his attendant, Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of Interior in the Harding cabinet, began today his second 24 hours in the New Mexico state prison.

The former Secretary, now convict 6991, remained under observation in a private room in the prison hospital ward. Bob Evans, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of a policeman at Raton, N. M., was assigned as his nurse.

A two hour examination yesterday by the prison physician, Dr. Eugene W. Fiske, convinced the Doctor Fall was physically able to serve his sentence.

"There is no danger of Fall dying in prison," he assured Warden Ed Swope.

Fiske told the United Press in an interview he believed the sentence would prove beneficial, rather than harmful to the ex-Secretary's health.

"Fall has a weak heart, arrested tuberculosis, chronic pleurisy, spinal arthritis and anterior sclerosis," the Doctor said.

"His habits will have to be readjusted before he can be assigned a ward. He likes to read late at night and sleep late in the morning. This will have to be changed. It would not be possible to permit him to read late and disturb other prisoners, nor would it be possible for him to sleep late in the morning."

Drug stimulants will be given Fall as he needs them, Fiske said, but alcohol, which he has been taking as a stimulant, will be discontinued.

"Use of alcohol as a stimulant for Fall stopped the moment he entered the prison," Dr. Fiske said.

Choice Whiskey Is Robbers' Only Loot

Evanston, Ill., July 22—(UP)—Three men forced their way into the palatial home of Mrs. Charles H. Deering, yesterday, bound four servants and a caller with clothline and spent four hours emptying the wine cellar of 20 cases of choice whiskey, which they hauled away in a truck. Nothing else was taken.

Mrs. Deering, daughter-in-law of the founder of the International Harvester Company, is vacationing in Europe.

The bandits were admitted to the housekeeper, when they asked if she had any old clothes to sell. One of them pointed a gun at the housekeeper and ordered her upstairs where they found Chris Christiansen, caretaker, and his wife and daughter.

The younger of the men asked Miss Brosius where the jewels were kept, and the housekeeper told him that Mrs. Deering had taken them to Europe.

The bandits searched the house but were unable to find any jewelry. One of the bandits remained with the prisoners while the other went to search the basement. Twenty minutes later he reported that "the truck had arrived" and that he was going to tie up the three victims with clothline.

At five o'clock Christiansen freed himself, released the others and called police. Nothing except the liquor cache, said to have been pre-war age, had been touched by the bandits, police said.

Sharkey Has Big Weight Advantage

New York, July 22—(UP)—Jack Sharkey will enjoy a weight advantage of 23 pounds over Mickey Walker when they meet in their 15-round bout for the "American heavyweight championship" at Ebbets Field tonight. It was disclosed in their examinations before the New York Boxing Commission this afternoon. Sharkey weighed 198½ and Walker 169½.

Sharkey's weight was as anticipated. Walker's weight was surprising. Holder of the middleweight championship, and accustomed to fighting below the 160-pound mark, he was expected to weigh about 165 pounds.

The weighing-in ceremony was witnessed by a large crowd of fight enthusiasts in the offices of the commission.

Walker and Sharkey shook hands cordially and chatted of inconsequential things for a few moments. Both appeared in the best of condition after their long training periods.

It was announced that Johnny Buckley, Al Lacey and Tony Pallazallo would be in Sharkey's corner. Jack Kearns and Teddy Hayes will second Walker.

The first bout will be started at 8:15 p. m. E. T. The main bout is expected to start at about 9:30 p. m. There will be no radio broadcast.

Trotzky Says World Revolution Is Near

BY RAYMOND CROWLEY

New York, July 22—(AP)—Leon Trotsky, in his latest thesis on Communism prepared for distribution in America, holds that the world revolution must be accomplished or the dictatorship of proletariat Russia must fall.

The former chief of the Red Army, now in exile at Moscow, attacks the Stalin regime, denouncing it as a "strangled" Communist party, leaving itself without eyes or ears.

In this new pamphlet, which has been translated into several languages and now is being prepared for American distribution, he assails Stalinism as a false theory of national Socialism—or Socialism in one country—and declares "the complete and final way of the internal contradictions will be found by the U. S. S. R. in the arena of the victorious revolution of the world proletariat, and only there."

He says his "left opposition" has nothing in common with those who believe in the longevity of capitalism and indicates a belief that the world revolution will come.

The Soviet Union, he says, is now in a transitional stage from capitalism to Socialism, a stage marked by contradictions of varying historical origin. All of these contradictions lead "to the contradiction between the isolated workers' state and its capitalist encirclement."

Russia, before and after the revolution, he says, "constituted an inseparable part of world economy."

Stole Nice Clothes For Her Marriage

Springfield, Ill., July 22—(AP)—Because she wanted "some nice clothes to get married in," Mrs. Henry Rhodes, 15-year-old bride of but a few hours, was in the city jail here today. Her husband occupied another cell.

The pair were arrested last night when they returned to this city from Petersburg where they had been married. The bride was charged with robbery.

Police said that the girl admitted taking two dresses, some hosiery, and a purse from a northside home on Monday. The man disclaimed any knowledge of the robbery but was held for investigation.

Son Of Leader Of Drys Under Cloud

St. Clairsville, O., July 22—(AP)—Henry Morgan, 19, son of C. Ray Morgan, member of the Executive Committee of the Belmont County Dry Enforcement League, was charged with possession of beer yesterday after State Prohibition Commissioner Lloyd Wine and Marshal Don Hardesty raided the young man's home.

Hardesty said 120 pints of beer were confiscated.

Morgan was not arrested but was ordered to appear before Magistrate C. B. Bradford for a hearing.

ONE-GIRL-RIOT SENDS OFFICER TO HOSPITAL TIES UP TRAFFIC, SUSPENDS BUSINESS IN STORE

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—A one-girl-riot is what police called it. A report that 500 men and women were milling about and fighting in the street was the first intimation the police had that there was anything wrong. Riot squads were sent out but when they arrived they found that all of the 500 except one, were spectators. The exception was Miss Marie Gallagher, who the police were told, had announced she was descended from a line of fighting queens and would brook no interference.

For some reason, unrevealed to police, she was blocking the doorway of a store. Several men who tried to enter were punched by her.

The police arrested Miss Gallagher, but not until Sergeant Michael Jennings had been struck on the nose, Policeman Charles Foote had bruises and cuts where Miss Gallagher kicked him, and Policeman James Clune had been bitten so severely that he had to be taken to a hospital.

Miss Gallagher weighs about 130 pounds.

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

ANGER APPEARED

Chicago, July 22—(UP)—State Parole Officer M. H. Cone was decidedly angry when he discovered a pickpocket had stolen his wallet, which contained $11, his badge and his identification card.

All his anger disappeared, however, after the wallet was returned through the mail with its contents the same except that instead of $11 there was $15.

"It looks like some paroled pickpocket is trying to bribe me," he commented, laughing.

MARKET OPENS STRONG

Winnipeg, Man., July 22—(UP)—The marriage market opened strong today with at least three bids for the hand of the Lancashire, England, girl who sent a bequest to Mayor Ralph Webb to find her an eligible young man under 30.

One of the men, who lives near Fort Francis, said he was interested "if she ain't no cripple." He expressed disgust with modern girl's beauty, he said, "they drink too much beer."

In her letter, the girl said she was a mill worker and "neither danced nor led a fast life."

UNIQUE RECORD

Chicago, July 22—(UP)—Twenty years a traffic officer on one of the world's busiest streets without ever making an arrest was the record claimed today by Alex Locaschio after his retirement on pension from the force.

"See, I still have the first ticket book I ever got and there isn't a leaf torn and of it," the smiling veteran said as he left his post at the Michigan Avenue bridge for the last time.

"Instead of givin' 'em summonses, I lectured 'em about obeyin' the rules," explained the officer, who is said to number many friends and enemies among the thousands of motorists who drove past him daily in entering the loop.

Locaschio, now 52 years old, came to America from Italy when he was 10. He joined the police force in 1911.

POLICEMEN STUMPED

Chicago, July 22—(UP)—Sam Fine, 56, was arrested at Arlington race track trying to cash another person's winning ticket and the first thing Chicago police wanted to know was whether he ever had been in trouble before.

"Oh, yes, ripping," blithely replied Fine in a Cockney accent.

"What do you mean, ripping?" growled a detective.

"Bl' me, I'll tell you—I used an old man," Fine grinned.

The pained and puzzled expression on his face won the policemen's faces aroused his professional pride to explanation.

"Ripping, y' know, is knocking the combination off a safe and strippin' your way through to what's inside," he said. "An old man? Why, strike me pink, an old man is the tool you use to do the ripping."

A checkup of police records showed Fine had been declared a habitual criminal in England in 1912 and had served a prison term in Michigan for a Detroit burglary.

MEDDLER FINED

Indianapolis, Ind., July 22—(UP)—Municipal Judge Wilbur Royce ruled today that women have a right to smoke on Indianapolis streets and commended husbands who don't interfere.

He then sentenced C. W. Hardwick, 50, to ten days in jail and a $50 fine for removing a cigarette from Mrs. Marjorie Pelecco's mouth.

Mrs. Pelecco said she was sitting with her husband in their automobile when Hardwick knocked a cigarette from her mouth and slapped her three times. Hardwick denied the slapping and said he "jerked" rather than "knocked" the cigarette from her mouth.

"It disgusts me to see a woman smoke," he explained.

"Your type of person," Judge Royce replied, "always is minding somebody else's business. I wish I could sentence you to six months."

"This woman's husband deserves the commendation of the court for not interfering in her judgment concerning smoking."

LINCOLN'S WAY

—HENRY TYRRELL—
ARGE and loving, rudely tender.

With a heart that knew no fear,
Stern as granite for a principle
Yet melting at a tear—
Father Abraham, they called him,
This sublime yet simple man,
In whose veins the ardent humanhood
Of Old Kentucky ran.

Dear to him the cause of Freedom,
For the black as for the white;
Dear to him the common soldier
Who was with him in the fight;
But if one perchance should fatter,
With his life he must atone:
He was past all human pardon, save
The President's alone.

Now a father, poor and aged bowed
Alike with years and woe,
Crushed by a pain and sorrow
That a parent's heart can know,
Brought, despairing, his petition;
He would plead in Lincoln's ear;
And he prayed to Heaven for mercy,
That through God's love, man might hear.

"My two sons, my only children,
to the Union's cause I gave,
One lies buried in Virginia in an Unknown soldier's grave
And the other last and dearest, for
What error I know not—
Is condemned as a deserter, and is Sentenced to be shot."

"My old friend," said Lincoln, kindly,
"There has inquiry been made, and
The execution, meanwhile, I have Caused to be Delayed, until further orders from me;

This one fact at least, I know:
Your young man can serve us better here

Here Are Summer Menus You'll Like

It takes an artist to always serve meals in the summer which are appealing to the appetite. Service adds greatly to the effect of coolness which is so desirable. Dainty colored linen and crystal in cool colors form a background for meals in which the dishes served may be as simple as you wish, but which must be as dainty and attractive as they can be made. Inez S. Wilson, home economist, gives a few menu suggestions that are built around meat dishes which are particularly suitable for summer.

Reunion Jacob Long Family On Sunday at Lowell

On Sunday, July 19 1931, the members of the Jacob H. Long family held their eighth annual family reunion at Lowell Park. The day was ideal and relatives and friends numbering sixty-seven gathered bringing well filled baskets and a bountiful mid-day dinner was served upon a long table spread beneath the trees. The gathering was also planned to honor the fiftieth or golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Long. After the dinner the president of the association, Mrs. Tillie Sutherland gave a brief address appropriate to the occasion, then the newlyweds of long ago were asked to stand before the company while a wedding ceremony was read for them by their nephew, Harry Long, after which amid much merriment and wishes for fifty more years of wedded bliss, Mr. and Mrs. Long were then presented with a sum of money in token of the love and esteem in which they are held by their friends. Afterwards a business meeting was held at which the following officers were elected for 1932.

President—Mrs. Tillie Sutherland
Vice President—M. L. Long
Secretary—Mrs. Nina A. Haas

Executive committee—Clarence Wilson, Chairman; Charlie Long, Harry Long, Louis Long and Walter Martin. The remainder of the day was spent in sports and social chat and was greatly enjoyed by all. Those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lease, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lease and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Laher and Mr. and Mrs. Brown and daughter of Savanna, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Close and family of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Close of Kankakee, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin and family of DeKalb, Mrs. Pauline Boyers and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Long and family of Sterling, Warren Lowery of Beloit; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Guhl and family and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kickhafer and family of Freeport; Mrs. Emma Kornhaus, Mrs. Jessit Pollett, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Long, Mrs. Tillie Sutherland, Clarence Wilson, Miss Laura Long, Miss Lillian Long, Miss Deloris Long, William Perger, Geo. Ide, Misses Goldie and Ruth Schumacher, Mrs. Mary Hardesty, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Barnhart and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long,

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Long and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haas, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Struck, all of Dixon.

Brothers and sisters, kinsfolk and friends,
We, the Clan of Long have met once again
To brighten old friendships that have stood year on year
To strengthen the new ones grown increasingly dear.
To awaken in memory the fragrance that lies
Deep in each heart round the sacred home ties.
To exchange kindly greetings and the hearty hand clasp
To link close the present with the days that are past.
While fond recollection brings up to our gaze
Many cherished reflections of youth's happy days.
Let us cherish the joys of the present and past
Forgetting the tears the years bring as they pass.
Let us gather the blossoms of friendships so fair,
As we mount with each year one more step on life's stair.
For old friends and true friends are pearls beyond price,
And joys are the flowers that bloom by God's grace.
Today we may mingle, may stand side by side,
Tomorrow be scattered to homes far and wide.
Yet will today's greetings and happy good cheer
Abide in our hearts all through the year.
So in gratitude tender for the blessings we share
Let us be joyful today and banish old care.
While our hearts breathe a hope as the day nears an end,
That God may be willing that we all meet again.

Burdge-Eberley Wedding Tuesday A Pretty Ceremony

Byron B. Burdage, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Burdage of 1202 Ottawa avenue, and Miss Ella M. Eberley, of Eldena, were quietly married at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage of the Christian church, Rev. J. A. Barnett, pastor of the church performing the ceremony in the presence of the parents of the bridegroom, who were the only witnesses. The bride was gown in a pretty creation of blue chiffon and carried flowers. The young people, whose many friends will unite in well wishes for them, will make their home on a farm near Eldena.

Pretty New York Wedding Saturday Schrock-Samson

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Schrock announce the marriage of their daughter, Arlene, to Edward Samson, of New York City, on Saturday, July 18th at the Church of the Transfiguration (The Little Church Around the Corner) in New York City.

The simple but impressive ceremony was performed in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends.

The bride was lovely in a gown of pink net over taffeta with blue hat, mits and shoes and wore a corsage of gardenias and lilies of valley.

For the past three years she has been a teacher in the River Forest schools and her many friends there and in Dixon will unite in wishing her every happiness.

The bridegroom is the head of the editorial department of C. S. Hammond and Co., the Geographical Publishers; he was educated at Sedburgh and Cambridge, England, and is a commanding officer in the British forces during the World War. After a honeymoon along the Maine coast they will make their home in an apartment in New York City.

Fri-Lo-Ha Class Meeting Monday

The Fri-Lo-Ha class of the Christian Bible School had a very pleasant meeting at the hospitable Mossholder home Monday evening, July 20th.

The original class song was sung with the real class spirit and this enthusiasm prevailed throughout the evening. The officers elected at the June meeting officiated. They are as follows: President, Lucille Rhodes; vice president, Estelle Mercer; secretary, Hazel Rhodes; treasurer, Olive Boos, and librarian, Marie Blackburn.

The president gave to each officer a list of her duties and appointed the following committees: chairman: Devotional, Gladys Kime; membership, Ethel Hackbarth; social, Edna Mossholder. Each shall choose her helpers.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was read and accepted. Mrs. Kime led the devotionals, using the second of a series of lessons on the communion. After a discussion Mrs. Derr offered prayer.

Social activities partially planned were an ice cream social to be held on the church lawn and a "garden party" to be given on the spacious Rhodes lawn in the near future. Details will be announced by the social committee.

We were happy to hear a letter read from Virginia Hawkins who recently moved to Manning, Iowa, and who is entering heartily into the religious life of that community. Our loss is their gain.

A surprise program was announced, Ruth Leach carrying us to the "land of palms and pineapples" with her Hawaiian guitar music, and Mrs. W. B. Hall, a former teacher of the class, giving a most interesting account of her vacation trip in the west, through the Royal Gorge, Estes Park, Colo., etc. Helen McGonigle improvised a few piano selections in her usual charming manner.

Margaret Strock, Margaret Sproul of Dixon; Alice Starkey of Chicago; and Arlene Miller of Princeton; were guests and contributed to the happiness of the evening.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments, a welcome climax to a warm day and their guests were reluctant to depart till a late hour. Olive Boos will entertain the class at the August meeting. All are planning for a full attendance Sunday morning when the belated class picture, an annual event, will be taken with the president and seven past-presidents in the front row.

THE BILLBOARD MENACE.

The campaign against the roadside billboard has been in operation for a good many years now; but sometimes a weary citizen is compelled to wonder if anything but axes and sticks of dynamite will ever rid the highways of these commercialized scenery destroyers.

The American Nature Association recently issued for the National Council for the Protection of Roadside Beauty a little booklet surveying the roadsides of California—one of a series of surveys which so far have covered five other states. It is a discouraging but useful little pamphlet.

California probably has as much natural beauty as any other state in the union, if not more. Furthermore, California's citizens are eager to make their roads as attractive as possible, and have spent a great deal of money in beautifying them, planting long stretches of trees and shrubs to hide scars of construction or relieve monotonous vistas.

But the booklet contains some dismal pictures.

We see beautiful Mount Shasta, for instance rising above a long row of blatant billboards. We see huge advertising signs flanking a road that leads to another snow-capped mountain. We see another sign rearing its ugliness in front of a state-planted grove of trees along another highway. We see one stretch of road containing 14 billboards in a fifth of a mile. We see billboards erected at dangerous curves, where there should be nothing to distract the motorist's attention from the roadway. We see miserable, sign-dotted filling station shacks in the near national forests.

What are we to do about this problem, anyway? It seems almost impossible to devise laws that will cover it. Not even the enlightened attitude of California's citizens has saved the state from billboards. Public sentiment so far seems to be powerless.

The only remedy, it may be, is to keep harping on the subject until every motorist takes each billboard as a personal insult. That might get results and save this scenery.

TABLOIDS AND THEIR READERS.

Peaches Browning's recent admission that most of the lurid details about her famous—or notorious, if you prefer—romance with Daddy Browning were boldly "faked" by conscienceless New York tabloids is interesting by hardly surprising.

After all, the stories some of those sheets printed were such obvious fakes that none but the most gullible could possibly have been deceived. The only disturbing part about the whole thing, in retrospect, is the fact that there are papers that will do that sort of thing and people who will rush forward eagerly to read when it has been done.

There is a public for that sort of writing, and probably there will always be papers that will cater to it. The fact that the readers get grossly deceived is not important; it is the fact that such readers exist that is dismaying.

CHEERS AND VOTES.

Anyone who reads the papers must be impressed by the fact that returning heroes are often very valuable to harassed office-holders.

A recent newspaper picture taken when Post and Gatty made their triumphal return to New York shows the two flyers riding down Broadway, surrounded by cheering throngs—with dapper Jimmy Walker, mayor of New York, sitting between them and sharing in the cheers.

Mayor Walker has been subjected to a continual sniping for a good many months. Whether or not his popularity with the average New York voter has diminished as a result we cannot say; but, surely, this little ride with Post and Gatty must have been just the kind of help he wanted.

Perhaps this explains the everlasting eagerness of city officials everywhere to give elaborate receptions to visiting celebrities. It all helps. Cheers that you get by accident can often be transformed, later on, into votes.

It is inevitable that the entire banking system must be socialized in the public interest.—Professor Colston Warne.

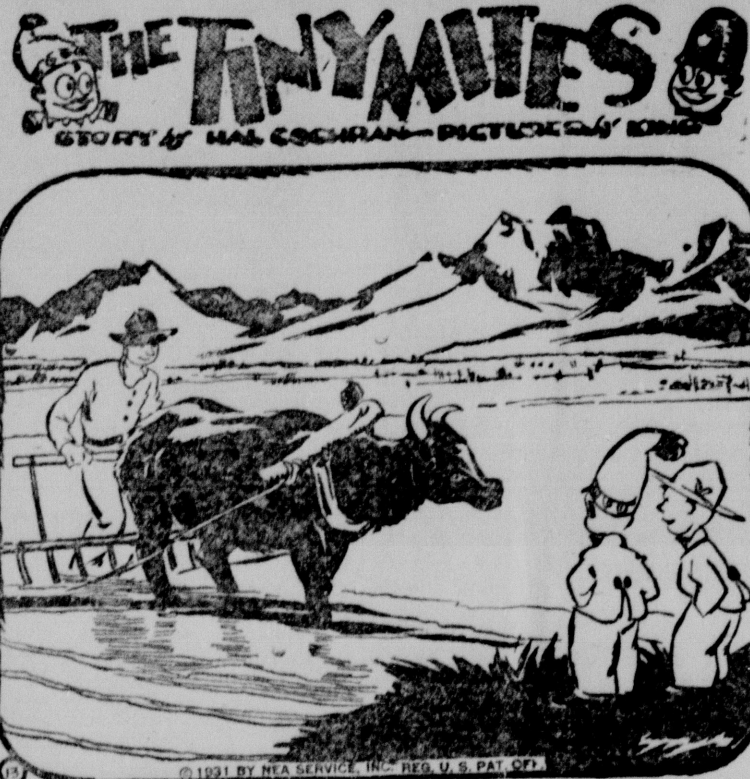

Honesty brings terrific isolation in life.—Rev. F. A. Fadden.

I would as lief poison people as tell untruths about them.—Bishop Woodcock of Kentucky.

It is possible to create a warless world if we Christianize our nationalism, but never if patriotism dechristianizes our religion.—Prof. Jerome Davis, of Yale Divinity School.

Slide-rule civilization has given us organization and distribution of our various forms of wealth.—Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of interior.

The depression was caused primarily by poor judgment as to conditions and prospects.—Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"That shark weighs more than all of us and it created quite a fuss before it safely was hooked," said the friendly Travel Man. "If you will just look you will plainly see its teeth as sharp as they can be. And gaze upon its widespread tail. It's like a great big fan."

Then Clowdy said, "Please tell us now, if you are able to, just how they catch a big shark. It must be hard." The Travel Man replied, "Well, when the hook them from the shore, a real exciting time in store. They use a great big rope to which a monstrous hook is tied."

"The hook is dropped in water deep and then the fishermen all keep close watch until the rope is jerked, which indicates that a shark has struck. They let the shark swish round about until they know he is tried out. And then they pull him in. It's really quite a thrilling lark."

And then the bunch went back to where a fish meal waited them, and there they all sat down and had a real treat. The browned fish tasted very fine. The man who served them cooked a lot and kept each fine fish piping hot. "They taste much better," Scouty said, "than those caught on a line."

In about an hour the Travel Man exclaimed, "Well Tynies, if we can we'll find a spreading rice field where you little lads can watch them plow. You know when you sit down to rice it makes a dish that is very nice. If you have wondered how it grows, you'll shortly find out how."

They very shortly found a field and then the bunch were much surprised again because it was water covered and a plowman plowed right through. "Oh, gee!" said wee Clowdy, "I'll just bet he dislikes getting soaking wet. I have seen folks plow on dry land, but this sure is something new."

(The Tynmites visit a pineapple garden in the next story.)

RUSSIA'S NEW POWER

On July 22, 1917, the Joint Congress of the Workmen's and Soldiers Councils and of the All-Russia Council of Peasant Delegates conferred supreme and unrestricted power on the new Russian government. They passed the following resolution after an all night session:

"Recognizing that the country is menaced by a military debacle on the front and by anarchy at home, it is resolved:

First—that the country and the revolution are endangered;

Second—that the Provisional government is proclaimed the government of National Safety.

Third—that unlimited powers are accorded the Government for re-establishing the organization and discipline of the army for a fight to the finish against the enemies of the public order and for the realization of the whole program embodied in the Governmental program just announced."

Daily Health Talk

FOOT HEALTH

In slang, the feet are often referred to as "dogs." Judging by the amount of abuse they get, there is more than ordinary justification for this appellation.

Few disabilities will throw one out of commission as quickly and completely as foot trouble.

Nor need the foot trouble to be of major seriousness. A painful corn, a soft callous, or an ingrown toenail can render one quite miserable.

Anyone who has experienced a blister on the heel well knows how fatiguing it is to walk in a restrained and unnatural manner.

Picture, then, the results, when one is obliged, day in and day out, to walk constrainedly because of ill-fitting shoes or some painful foot condition.

The effects of the abuses which the foot suffers tend to accumulate. Hence, the proper care of the feet should begin in infancy.

Despite the widespread prevalence of foot troubles, the prevention of these conditions is simple, for it is based on cleanliness, and upon proper fitting stockings and shoes.

This is particularly important from infancy through adolescence, when the bones of the feet are still developing.

A properly fitted sock or stocking conforms to the foot's shape. It should under no circumstance be too short.

Wool is the preferred material. Silk may have an aesthetic value, but it is not good for those who must be on their feet a good deal of the time. In such situations, a compromise is indicated. One can wear a light wool sock inside of a silk stocking.

Proper shoes, for the normal foot, are low cut, have a low heel, and a sole as broad as the sole of the foot.

There should be room for the proper expansion of the toes in the act of walking. The shoe should fit snugly around the foot's arch.

Tomorrow—The Child's Appetite.

PRINCETON GIRL FACES FIFTY OP- ERATIONS ON FACE

Child, Aged 5, Patient In Chicago Hospital For Several Months

Chicago, July 22—(UP)—Facing fifty operations to remove the scars received in a recent automobile accident, five-year-old Jean Underwood of Princeton, Ill., smiled through the bandages today and said:

"I'm not scared, 'cause it don't hurt."

Jean was injured more than a week ago when the automobile in which she was riding with her mother, Mrs. Virgil Underwood, crashed into another car at a Princeton intersection.

Today she displayed the same bravery at Passavant hospital that she showed after the crash which disfigured her face.

"The doctor came in and asked me to go to sleep, and so I did, right away," said blond blue-eyed Jean. "When I woke up he told me he had taken some skin off my knee, and I said I didn't care."

"Then he told me I was a brave little girl and I said 'thanks.' But he's nice and doesn't hurt me at all. And I like it here."

As the child displayed the leg from which she said the skin was removed, her aunt, Mrs. Adalea Seiver of LaSalle, who has been with Jean since her parents returned to Princeton this week, attested to Jean's bravery.

"After the accident Jean noticed she was bleeding," Mrs. Seiver said. "She turned to her mother and calmly said, 'May I have a handkerchief, please?' She didn't cry until she was being treated at the hospital."

Nose Almost Severed

"Realizing that when the doctor tells me to go to sleep he is going to fix my face," Jean nevertheless does not understand that almost 50 delicate operations must be performed to reconstruct her nose, almost severed in the accident, and to remove the scars which reach from her forehead to her chin; or that some of them may never be removed.

She must remain at Passavant hospital for several months, physicians say.

"The process is very slow," Dr. Michael Mason, facial surgeon said. "We must reconstruct the nose. We will have to graft skin, probably from the forehead, to do this, and that is but a part of our work."

Brought to Chicago a week ago upon advice of Princeton physicians, Jean recovered rapidly from the shock of her experience. Her injuries were confined to her face and head, where she suffered a deep gash. Hospital officials today pronounced her general condition as "very satisfactory."

As she played with her dolls, Jean talked calmly of the accident, and of the pain of having her face "fixed." But her hopes centered on other things.

"I'm going to start school in the fall when I am six," she said proudly, "but I want to stay here for a long time. When I get well auntie will take me for a swim in the lake and I can wear my sailor suit on the sand."

One Dead, Five Shot In Kansas City Raid

Kansas City, Mo., July 21—(UP)—One man was killed and five others seriously wounded in a hand-to-hand battle between Federal officers and police and gangsters in a florist shop, believed to have housed a large liquor supply.

The agents found John Callo, 23, asleep in an upstairs room when they entered the shop last night. They took a gun away from him, but Callo produced another and shot two of the officers. Callo was killed by Lieut. E. L. Nelson, City Detective, as they fought in the dark for possession of the Detective's riot shotgun.

Curtis G. Burks, prohibition officer; Joe Lusco, alleged gang leader, who were wounded in the fight; and M. P. Wilson, Negro, wounded by a stray bullet, were given slight chance for recovery at a hospital today.

AMERICAN HELD BY CHINESE IN VIOLATION PACT

Doctor-Missionary Is Arrested On Murder
Charge Recently

Peiping, China, July 21—(UP)—A sensation in foreign quarters was caused today by an announcement at the United States Legation that Dr. Francis Tucker, a medical missionary had been arrested by the Chinese in Shantung province.

The legation statement said that Dr. Tucker had been removed to Tsin-Fu, Capital of Shantung, and placed in prison.

The reported action is a breach of the extra-territoriality treaty with the United States, which Washington has refused to permit China to abolish.

Dr. Tucker's reported arrest at Tsin-Fu followed an incident at Tehchow, Shantung, recently, when he fatally wounded a Chinese worker in the mission hospital with which he is connected there.

Dr. Tucker said he shot thinking the Chinese was a burglar.

The Chinese press at once began a campaign against the medical missionary, a member of the American Mission Board. Feeling in Tehchow became tense.

The Kuomintang, or People's party, organization in Shantung province demanded Dr. Tucker's arrest last week, that the United States Minister, Nelson Johnson, apologize, and that an indemnity be paid.

Subsequently an official report of the shooting said the Chinese was shot while attempting to rob the hospital safe.

The arrest and imprisonment of an American citizen by Chinese police is a breach of the extra-territoriality treaty which America, in line with similar action by Great Britain and other powers, has insisted be maintained until China has evolved legal code and can enforce it. The treaty provides for trial of accused foreigners in courts of their native land.

The National government at Nanking in recent months has pushed the traditional effort of the revolutionary regime to abolish extra-territoriality. Dr. C. T. Wang, Foreign Minister last spring issued a proclamation that the government considered the old treaties no longer in force but was willing to negotiate for ways and means on how best to establish the new order.

The United States maintains a federal court in Shanghai for the trial of American citizens in China. Americans may be arrested on complaint of Chinese for any offense criminal or civil, and brought to trial at that court, before Judge Milton D. Purdy, but until the present treaty expires next year, extra-territorial rights still, in theory at least, obtain.

TRUSTY INJURED

Rock Island, Ill., July 21—(UP)—Ben Coutteau, 26, a trusty in the county jail, was injured seriously today when he fell from a ledge on the courthouse while washing windows.

BURIAL FLAGS FOR VETERANS NOW AVAILABLE

Postmaster Moyer Gets Supply For Distribution In County

Postmaster John E. Moyer has just received a consignment of burial flags from the Veterans' Administration of Hines, Ill. These flags are to be draped the caskets of deceased war veterans' and are to be distributed upon proper application for use anywhere in Lee County.

In a recent Postal Bulletin this article appears:

"It is the desire of the Postal Administration to assist to the fullest extent possible the Administration of Veterans' affairs in administering the act of 1924 (known as the World's War Veterans' Act) as amended by section 12 of the act of 1930, which provides:

"Where a veteran of any war, including those women who served as Army nurses under contracts between April 21, 1898 and Feb. 2, 1901, who was not dishonorably discharged, dies after discharge or resignation from the service, the director shall furnish a flag to drape the casket of such veterans and afterwards to be given to his next of kin regardless of the cause of death of such veteran."

To that end it is directed that postmasters at all county seat post offices cooperate with the Veterans' Administration so that upon the death of a veteran his next of kin or any person acting in the interest of the deceased veteran, shall upon compliance with certain rules, receive a burial flag.

MEMORIAL FOR TIANE

Paris—(UP)—A monument is being erected in front of the Invalides to the memory of Henri Taine, whose real name was Hippolyte Adolphe Taine. The site of the memorial was chosen because Taine loved to muse in the garden. Taine was given the name of Henri through the whim of the editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes, who also styled him a French critic. He was more truly a great historian and philosopher who enjoyed a considerable vogue in the latter part of the 19th century.

His two alleged companions in the robbery and flight were to be arraigned later in the day.

Sheriff Bernard Phelps was the only witness presented by State's Attorney A. Fred Kendall. He testified that his Deputy, Ennen, was shot to death by Jazarak and that Jazarak had admitted killing the officer during the chase. The accused murderer was lodged in the county jail to await the next grand jury term probably in November.

Jazarak and his fellow prisoner

Pierce F. Lenigan and Edward Feler, alias Byrnes, have signed confessions of the robbery as well as a series of post office robberies in Illinois, New York, Florida, South Carolina, Georgia and Maryland.

Slayer Of Deputy Held To Grand Jury

He professed ignorance of the legal proceedings when arraigned before Police Magistrate Peter Kammer and uttered no plea.

BOOTLEGGER OF GASOLINE FACES SERIOUS TIMES

State Moves To Push New Law Aimed At Such Practice

Springfield, Ill., July 22 —(AP)—Gasoline "bootleggers" who in the past have been successful in evading payment of the three-cent gasoline tax are going to have rough going in the future, Director of Finance Garrett De Kinney said here today.

Director Kinney is now making additions to his department which will enable him to enforce the law recently enacted to prevent dealers in gasoline from dodging the tax. Under the terms of the new law, every gasoline distributor must file a surety bond before receiving a license from the department and all brokers must register with the department before he can transact business. The filing of bonds and registration must be completed by July 31.

Failure of a distributor to acquire a license in the required manner, or to make the proper inventory and tax payment to the department shall make him liable to a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment from one to five years.

"This new law has teeth in it," Director Kinney stated today, "and the dealer or broker who fails to observe it will find them painfully sharp. We are determined to prevent unscrupulous persons from defrauding the state of gasoline tax money, to protect the legitimate dealer, and to maintain the high standard of motor fuel oil demanded by the state's specifications for quality."

Any broker or marketer who fails to register, or to make the proper return to the department, shall be liable to a fine not less than $25 nor more than $500, and a jail sentence not to exceed six months, or both.

"Heretofore, it was a difficult task for the department to discover tax evasions," Director Kinney said, "but we have overcome that obstacle with this new law."

"Under its provisions, every railroad company, street suburban or interurban railroad company transporting motor fuel either in interstate or intrastate commerce, and every person, transporting motor fuel, to a point in this state from a point without the state, must report all deliveries," he continued.

"These reports shall cover monthly periods, and must show the name and address of the person to whom the deliveries were made, the point of origin, the point of delivery, the date of delivery, and the number and initials of each car, if shipped by rail; the quantity of each shipment and delivery in gallons—in fact, every available bit of information regarding each shipment."

"From now on it will be impossible for bootleggers to smuggle gasoline into the state, and distribute it without paying the tax."

"Furthermore, any distributor who willfully fails to pay the tax when it becomes payable, will be subject to a penalty of one per cent a month on the amount of tax he has withheld, until it is paid."

Feeling Warm? Then Pity The Little Fishes

Washington —If you could change yourself into a fish, you still would not be able to escape the heat. Pinned fanners of liquid depths have their heat wave worries, too—in fact more than city dwellers, and largely because of them.

Not only are fishes extremely sensitive to temperature variations, and devoid of all comforting fans except an occasional outboard motor propeller—whenever people start saying they are "just about to suffocate," fishes by the thousands are actually suffocating.

Thus blasting a popular summertime fancy, officials of the American Game Association have announced that high temperatures combined with unusually low water levels are already taking a huge toll of valuable fish life. Bodies of water whose contributing streams have dried up, due to a continuation of drought, conditions are losing their supply of oxygen.

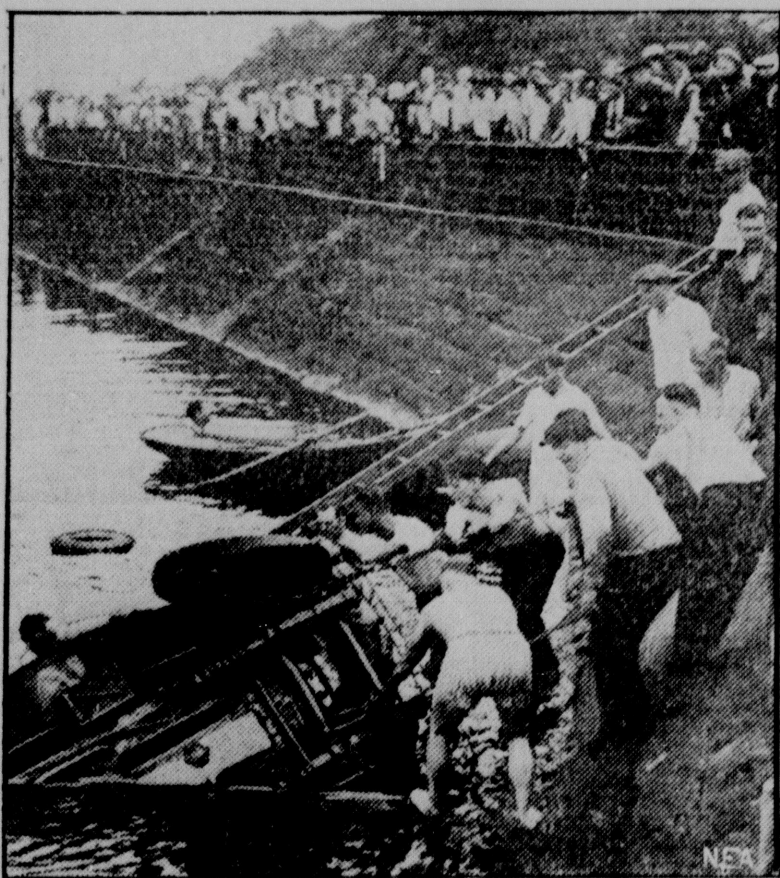

Rescue squads are already at work in California, Montana, Wisconsin, Missouri and other states. More than a million fishes were saved in each of these states last summer, the first season of extreme oxygen "depression." Outboard motor boats were used on several lakes as an emergency relief, to disturb the water so that it would absorb more oxygen from the air.

The Wisconsin game and fish commission has found that fish are dying in greatest numbers from the heat in waters which are most heavily polluted with the untreated sewage poured into them by cities, and towns, the officials reported.

A rough estimate of 85 per cent of all the waters in the country are sufficiently polluted to be dangerous to fish and human life the year round, they said, hot weather aggravates the condition. Heat hinders decomposition, increases the poisons in the water and causes the loss of a greater amount of oxygen.

South Carolina has let contracts for road projects to cost $6,500,000, including 148 miles on concrete, 168 miles of bituminous paving and 13 bridges.

When Rescue Efforts Failed

Unable to control her car after it had hit a curbing, Mrs. Lewis Stanley, just learning to drive, and her husband lost their lives in a reservoir at Pittsburgh, when her big sedan crashed through a railing. Rescuers are shown here dragging the car with the two victims inside, to the surface.

EMMA GOLDMAN GLAD AMERICA DEPORTED HER

That's What the Noted Anarchist Says From Her Exile In France

Paris, July 22 —(UP)—From her little white cottage near Saint Tropez, with a garden running down to the blue Mediterranean, Emma Goldman, 61, deported anarchist, looks over the dozens of years since she was shipped with 147 other "reds" from New York for Finland and exile and is really grateful to Uncle Sam for having sent her abroad.

"I have not the slightest desire to see America before I die," Mrs. Goldman-Cotton—her real name since her marriage to a Scot—"and I would not trade my little cottage and its sunshine for anything in New York."

Despite her 61 years, Emma Goldman takes her daily plunge in the Mediterranean and has spent ten hours a day over many months to complete the great autobiography, which is to be published in New York next autumn. So lengthy is it that it will appear in two large volumes.

Except for occasional rheumatic attacks, Mrs. Goldman is in perfect health. She is in constant communication, by mail, with her family in Rochester, N. Y., and still considers herself an American despite her British citizenship by marriage and her British passport.

The autobiography will start with her life in Russia, her job as seamstress in a Rochester coat factory; her introduction to anarchism at the time of the Haymarket hanging in Chicago when Emma became a crusader for the 8 hour working day; her arrest and imprisonment for two years for opposing the draft of 1917; her deportation on the "Buford"—"red cargo" ship—and her stay in Russia.

Her criticism of Bolshevism makes an interesting chapter, particularly when she attacks Bolshevism as being too "tame."

Washington Once Had Headquarters Near West Point

About a mile north of West Point in a little vale now known as Washington's Valley, General George Washington established his headquarters July 21, 1779. Here he lived until the following winter in a huge mansion known as Moore's House—a structure which had been built prior to 1749 by John Moore, prominent New York merchant. The house, because of its size and costliness was sometimes referred to as "Moore's Folly," a title by which it was designated in some of the literature of the day.

The Division of Information and Publication of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission recalls that at the time Washington established his headquarters at West Point, the military affairs of the colony were in a bad way. Savannah had been taken by the British, Suffolk and Portsmouth, Va., New Haven and other cities had been sacked and burned by the enemy. Added to all this was the fact that the Continental currency had depreciated to such an extent that, as Washington said, a wagon load of it would scarcely purchase a wagon load of provisions.

Despite these misfortunes, however, there were some bright spots for the Americans such as the brilliant exploit by which Wayne captured Stony Point and the equally daring attack on Paulus Hook successfully carried out by young Major Lee. A little later in the summer the British evacuated Rhode Island.

From his headquarters at West Point Washington wrote the following letter to Dr. John Cochran, surgeon general of the army. In it the commander-in-chief reveals a spirit far from depressed and gives an idea of the style of living which prevailed at his headquarters.

"Dear Doctor: I have asked Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. Livingston to dine with me tomorrow, but am not in honor bound to apprise them of their fare? As I hate deception, even where the imagination only is concerned, I will. It is needless to premise that my table is large enough to hold the ladies. Of this they had ocular proof yesterday. To say how it is used is more essential; and this shall be the purport of my letter."

"Since our arrival at this happy spot, we have had a ham, sometimes a shoulder of bacon, to grace the head of the table; a piece of roast beef adorns the foot; and a dish of beans or greens, almost imperceptible, decorates the centre. When the cook has a mind to cut a figure which I presume will be the case tomorrow, we have two beefsteak pies, or dishes of crabs, in addition one on each side of the centre dish, dividing the space and reducing the distance between dish and dish to about six feet, which, without them, would be about twelve feet apart. Of late he has had the surprising sagacity to discover that apples will make pies, and it is a question, if, in the violence of his efforts, we do not get one of apples instead of having both of beefsteaks. If the ladies can put up with such entertainment, and will submit to partake of it on plates once tin but now iron (not become so by the labor of scouring), I shall be happy to see them."

And the hand of the Lord was with them; and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

VARIATIONS IN COFFEE FLAVOR LAID TO BULK ROASTING

Hills Bros. Coffee Doesn't Vary in Flavor, Because of Radically Different Process

It is almost impossible to keep bulk-roasted coffee from varying in flavor. For in bulk roasting it is difficult to roast each batch alike. One lot may be slightly overdone—another a little underdone. Naturally, they each have a different flavor.

Hills Bros. discarded the bulk method for a process they invented and patented. It is called Controlled Roasting, and the roast is positively controlled. Variation is overcome. Every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee has the same rich, full-bodied flavor.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow—a little at a time—so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. No other process is like it. That's why Hills Bros. Coffee has a flavor no other coffee has.

Hills Bros. pack their coffee in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the cans. Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Chicago, Illinois.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

TEXT: Acts 7:59-8:4; 11:19-21
And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.

And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

And Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles.

And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.

As for Saul, he made havoc of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison.

Therefore they that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word.

Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen traveled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews only.

And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus.

And the hand of the Lord was with them; and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 22, Christianity Spread by Persecution, Acts 7:59-8:4; 11:19-21.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congregationalist

The early growth of Christianity is a striking illustration of the uses of adversity. Paul at one time, referring to the persecutions which he had suffered, rejoiced that the things that had seemed so unfavorable to himself had turned out for the growth and progress of the great cause to which he had completely devoted his life. What Paul said concerning himself was true of the early Church in general, and has been true throughout its entire history. This fact has sometimes found concrete expression in the saying that "the blood of martyrs is the seed of the Church."

It is the most hopeful fact in the economy of the universe that truth crushed to earth does rise again, that spiritual facts and forces instead of being stifled by opposition and destructive agencies are as seeds plunged into repulsive soil that all thrive and grow upon the unsavoriness of their surroundings.

Christianity's Power
Probably one should not push the recognition of this to the point of suggesting that opposition and persecution are necessary for the main growth of ideals and the triumph of moral convictions. That is not the logical conclusion from the facts. The logical conclusion is, rather, that spiritual ideals and moral forces are inherently stronger than anything else, and no opposition can destroy them.

The power of Christianity is undoubtedly demonstrated in its history. Not only is it a history of the major conquests of right against wrong and of good over evil in the larger conflicts of life; it is a history of transformations in the inner experience of men and of power in world leadership for right and truth realized through that transformation that we call salvation.

Consider this early martyrdom of Stephen in its effect upon Saul, whose change of heart is signified in the change of name that makes him known to us as Paul. We have no record of all that happened in Paul's life, but we know that deep in his consciousness there was embedded the fact of Stephen's faith and courage in the face of death, and though Paul, with fury in his young heart against the new religion standing by and holding the garments of those who stoned Stephen, and was consenting unto his death, there was something in him that pricked his conscience and that aroused the questioning that on the way to Damascus was to challenge and transform his life.

Effects of Persecution

But the effects of the persecution were not confined to one man's experience even though that man became a remarkable world traveler and did more than any other individual to spread the Gospel throughout the ancient world. The fact of this persecution of the early Church was to drive the Christians groups and individuals to various cities, and in this way the Church became established in Antioch, where the disciples were first known as Christians, and in parts beyond Antioch. The fact that Jews were already scattered in various places gave to these Christian disciples who were also Jews, a faithful field for their ministry, and the conversion of Paul so strengthened this movement of migration among the early Christians and the appeal of the new gospel to the Jews in every city where they went, that the growth of the early Church, which seems one of the most remarkable phenomena in history, is really explained by the spiritual enthusiasm associated with these outward classes.

Law of Growth

The Gospel, however, was something that could not be confined to one race or to one class. Very quickly its power to save and bless Gentiles as well as Jews, and black men as well as white men, was demonstrated. The breadth and fullness of the Gospel in its power in the souls of men created, in fact, new problems of outlook as the spirit of prejudice came in conflict with the new spirit of grace and of truth. It is always so in the progress of the Church. The more real our religion becomes, the more definitely does it create new problems in contact with a selfish and sinful world. It is through these new challenges and these new conflicts that progress comes and it is as true today as it was in these days of the early Church that "the hand of the Lord" is with those who go forth in his name and in his spirit, and the effect of their witness and their labors is always that others believe and are "turned unto the Lord." This is the law of growth in the Christian Church and where ever Christians observe it it brings results.

Will End Marine Training Next Year

Managua, —(UP)— If present plans are carried out, the organization and training of the Nicaraguan National Guard, the country's new military force, will be completed by 1933, and the Guard will be turned over to the Nicaraguan Government. By that time, under the present scheme, all of the U. S. Marines now on duty here will have been withdrawn.

The National Guard numbers over 2,000 officers and men, and the Military Academy near Managua is training Nicaraguan officers, graduating a class every six months. These graduates are commissioned second lieutenants.

The National Guard is a smartly-appearing organization, uniformed and equipped similarly to the Marines. Many Marine officers feel, however, that they should be given a longer time to train the organization. An American Marine officer, serving with the Guard, thinks ten years would be an adequate period. He remarked that enlisted men in the Marines are rarely well-trained or competent to act as non-commissioned officers until after their first enlistment of four years.

More than 40,000 Mexicans, 39,000 of them repatriates, re-entered their homeland from the United States through Laredo, Texas, from June, 1930 to June 1931.

NEW PLYMOUTH

SOLD BY ALL DESOTO, CHRYSLER AND DODGE DEALERS

THE WHOLE NATION WANTS TO KNOW MORE ABOUT IT

The revolutionary character of the New Plymouth has created a great flood of interest. Even the hardest of skeptics are so amazed at this new four that performs like an eight that they ask eagerly for the facts behind this tremendous accomplishment.

What is Floating Power?
Floating Power is a term applied to the new and revolutionary principle of mounting the engine in the car frame, developed by Chrysler Motors engineers for the New Plymouth.

Just how is the engine mounted?
On two live-rubber mountings nearly an inch thick. These mountings are so placed that a line drawn through them passes through the center of gravity of the engine. Thus the engine is suspended in perfect balance.

What does Floating Power do?
The live-rubber mountings allow the engine to rock upon its natural axis as if in a cushioned cradle. Vibration is thus entirely eliminated from the car.

Why does Floating Power succeed when all other methods fail?
Because Chrysler Motors engineers have not tried merely to dampen vibration; they have achieved an entirely new principle which dissipates the motor impulses so that they never reach the body and frame.

Why and How is Power Increased?
Because the elimination of vibration allows higher compression, which gives greater horsepower without increasing cylinder size. Floating Power makes possible 56 brake-horsepower and actual stop-watch speeds of 65 and 70 miles an hour, and pick-up from 0 to 40 miles in 9.7 seconds.

What else does Plymouth offer?
A score of things! Plymouth's Free Wheeling combines the advantages of the various types now in use. As a result, it permits Free Wheeling in all forward speeds, and it also may be completely locked out. The Easy-Shift transmission which enables you to shift, without clashing, from second into high and back into second, if you wish, at speeds up to 50 miles an hour. The new, double-drop frame for greater safety and roadability. New, eye-compelling beauty. Internal hydraulic brakes. Safety-Steel body.

You must see and drive the car to appreciate the phenomenal performance and value made possible by one of the greatest engineering developments the industry has ever seen.

LINCOLN STATUE HERE TO FIGURE IN FORD DISPLAY

Drew Attention Of Manager Of Tour Of Twenty Millionth Car

The city of Dixon officially welcomed the visit of the Twenty-Millionth Ford and the fleet of a dozen accompanying deluxe models of the same make yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, which was followed by a short parade through the business section. The fleet, which is traversing the entire country, is under the leadership of Col. C. D. Hilton of Detroit, Mich., who is accompanied by W. K. Edmunds of the Chicago branch. The visitors stopped at the Netts & Co., sales rooms where the formality of signing the official log took place.

Mayor George C. Dixon was the first to sign the log and affixed the official seal of the City of Dixon.

"This is the first city we have visited thus far where a member of the family who founded the city has signed the log," Col. Hilton stated. "Our brief visit in your city has resulted in the discovery of material which we consider very valuable in Mr. Ford's private Lincoln collection and we will return to Dixon later on for a longer visit," he told Mayor Dixon.

City Clerk Blake Grover and Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber also signed the log which together with the Twenty-Millionth Ford is to be placed in the Ford museum at Detroit at the close of the trip, which includes every state in the union. The signature of every governor appears in the log book.

The Fleet Regular Schedule

The fleet is traveling on a regular schedule and was less than two minutes late in arrival, and was about five minutes late in departing, the delay being caused by a hurried party to send representatives of the Ford company to Dixon at a later date. Two state highway police have been assigned to accompany the fleet through Illinois. A moving picture force also accompanies the fleet, taking views in each city in which they stop.

The cars halted briefly at the Crumelle statue of Lincoln on West Water street where several views of the statue were taken. Col. Hilton was much impressed by the natural scenic beauty of the statue and its surroundings and ordered other representatives to come to Dixon and take several views of the statue which will be presented to Henry Ford to be placed among his collection of Lincoln relics at Fort Dearborn.

Six Press Claims For Uncovered Gold

Springfield, Ill., July 21—(AP)—A pot of gold coins uncovered by ditch diggers at Buffalo near here today had six claimants, all prepared to press their claims in court.

Valued at $6,000 the gold is in possession of the owner of the land, Alexander Booth, who has deposited it in a Springfield bank. The county is the second claimant, under a law which provides unclaimed treasure trove reverts to the county if ownership is unproved; Jennie and Mary Leeds, granddaughters of Dr. Peter T. Leeds, original owner of the property, whom they say buried the gold; and the two diggers, Edward C. Jack and James J. Rogers, are the other claimants.

Jack is the last to enter the case formally. He filed a $5,000 damage suit against Alexander Booth in the Circuit Court yesterday.

FIREMEN SAVE KITTEN FROM DEATH BY FUMES

WEALTHY WIDOW WENT TO GRAVE UNFORGIVINGLY

Mrs. J. B. Henderson Instructs Adopted Kin Get Nothing

Washington, July 22 —(UP)—Fighter in life went to her grave — Mrs. John B. Henderson who was a forgiving.

Her will was probated here Tuesday.

"It is my expressed wish," the aged lady had dictated on April 8, "that Beatrice Henderson Wholean shall have nothing from my estate."

Mrs. Wholean sought last spring to have Mrs. Henderson declared incompetent. It was just after her grandmother had offered a $300,000 property to the government as a home for live Presidents. Mrs. Henderson accepted the challenge and in so doing proclaimed to the world that Mrs. Wholean was not her granddaughter but was an adopted child of her late son.

The will did not state how much Mrs. Henderson left. It popularly is supposed to be many millions of dollars. The money, the bonds, the Washington real estate goes to Henry and Frances Arnold, nephew and niece, of New York.

To Jesse Shima, Japanese secretary, Mrs. Henderson left $100,000 in cash and a $100,000 trust fund. The John Brooks Henderson art collection goes to the Smithsonian Institute. Dr. Paul Bartsch, curator of the institute gets $5,000.

Three employees were remembered as follows: C. K. Hasegawa, $10,000; William Carter, $3,000; and Josephine Darrar, $500.

Of Shima, Mrs. Henderson's will said he was her "chief aid and help during my declining years."

The will was drawn during the controversy between Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Wholean and it expressly nullifies previous wills and codicils. Mrs. Henderson expressed the opinion in her will that a $365,000 trust set aside for Mrs. Wholean in 1926 is "ample support." Mrs. Wholean also receives income from the estate of her adopted father, the late John B. Henderson, Jr.

Next Sunday finds the Oilers playing at Amboy park, with the Amboy "Shamrocks" furnishing the opposition.

SOVIET PRODUCTS LIKELY TO SWAMP EUROPE IN YEAR

Huge Tariff Barriers Are Urged To Protect Industries

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Paris, July 22 —(UP)—As Russia's Five-Year Plan advances and the first effects of the Soviet foreign merchandising program is beginning to be felt, industrialists, bankers and business men of France and Western Europe gaze with apprehension toward 1933, which many fear will go down in commercial history as a "Back Year," unless national parliaments build huge tariff barriers against the flood of Russian products.

By 1933, the first year in which the full strength of the reborn Russian industries and agriculture will be felt abroad, Russian industry will have increased its production by an average of 181 per cent. By the same time, agricultural production will have increased 151 per cent. France is wondering where Russia will market her goods.

French industrialists realize that the normal rule of supply and demand will control the markets and Russia, through her mass production and using the cheapest labor of Europe, may control prices to such an extent that France, Britain and Germany and Italy will lose most of their European export markets.

Experts Survey

The French Government has made an expert survey of the new Russian competition and has published an estimate showing the great progress that has been made in Russian agriculture and industry, giving an idea of the formidable expansion which may provoke disaster for the non-Russian exporters of Europe.

Coal (tons): 1923, 34,000,000, 1933, 125,000,000; Wheat (bu.) 1923, 2,375,000,000, 1933, 3,436,000,000; Oil (tons) 1923, 11,000,000, 1933, 41,000,000; Fertilizer (tons) 1923, 360,000, 1933, 7,000,000; Cotton Gds (yds) 1923, 2,539,000,000, 1933, 4,700,000,000; Woolens (yards) 1923, 97,000,000, 1933, 270,000,000; Tractors, 1923, 1,200, 1933, 100,000; Plows, 1923, 1,000,000, 1933, 5,000,000; Farm Machinery, 1923, 153,000,000, 1933, 525,000,000.

Technicians are now attempting to figure just how much of the increased production Russia's improved domestic markets will be able to absorb and how much will be left to pour into the rest of the world markets. As an industrial nation, Russia may acquire most of the great output of oil and coal.

Consumes Supply

That is also the idea of Sir Henri Detarding, head of the Royal Dutch group, which believes that Russia, as the second largest producer of oil in the world by 1933, second only to the United States, and with double the output of Venezuela, will have little oil left over for export.

If Russia succeeds in finding iron ore in the Kursk region, 500 miles south of Moscow, the whole of the increased coal production can be used at home. Otherwise, Russia should have a surplus of about 25 million tons of coal to dump on old Europe.

Most of the plows and tractors must be used on Russian farms, for Europe already has high customs barriers on imported farm machinery. Besides, Europe is accustomed to localized machinery. The Normandy farmer will not use the same type of machinery that a farmer in Germany, central France or Italy will use.

Farm Machinery

Russia is concentrating on one standard type of farm machinery and since it is not of the kind which appeals to the farmers of the remainder of Europe, there is little chance of Russian machinery driving the other products from the markets. American farm machinery manufacturers dominate the European markets by using branch factories making localized machines.

The French believe that Russia's difficulty will be to conscript enough labor to keep the farm machinery and factories running at capacity once the Five-Year Plan is ready. It is already necessary to conscript 20,000,000 laborers for industry and 60,000,000 for agriculture and there is still such a shortage that 750,000 more women may be forced to take light factory jobs. AIRWAYS

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, D. C. —(UP)—The aviators in the Northwest fly nightly through a natural tunnel and live to tell about it.

This "tunnel," which recently has been lighted under the direction of the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce, is bounded on two sides by the walls of the Columbia River gorge, on the bottom by the river, and overhead by fog. Perilous as it sounds, it is safe compared with the air region over the gorge, due to fog, difficulties of terrain, and heavy forestation.

As a result the idea of routing all commercial planes right through the lower branches of the gorge itself was hit upon. Here the wind keeps the route virtually free from fog, and all that is necessary is to follow a straight course to get through the 50 miles of tunnel from Portland, Oregon to Pasco, Washington.

To this end flashing lights have been installed all along the route, green on one side and red on the other, so the flier will make no mistake in his direction. In addition two powerful beacons have been installed on each side, and one at each extremity of the gorge. The aviators now may fly at a level of less than 20 feet in case of low fog keeping between the lights, and will emerge unscathed.

Paris, France —(UP)—Henri G. Bardel, director of the Air Union Company here, and Raoul Ferrier, French engineer, have discovered a "safe" gas, which they have just succeeded in making air-worthy and thereby eliminating one of the very greatest of aviation menaces.

Tests with the new non-explosive gasoline have convinced experts that its advantages are as follows: It can be used by every motor by merely changing the carburetor. The importance of this can be judged by the fact that if Diesel aviation engines, burning heavy oils, are generally adopted it means complete alteration in the construction of aviation engines. It is made from ordinary industrial spirits, but with a more rigorous control in the distillation. It is slightly less expensive than ordinary gasoline and has the same power.

The Air Union has lent its aid in the perfection of the gasoline, and has announced its decision of using it as soon as the special carburetors have been manufactured. The perfection tests included eight flights from Paris to London and back in a heavy Goldschlager passenger plane of the Air Union. It was also tried out on eight different motors for 226 hours on the ground and during 4 hours while in flight. Each test successful.

sia will start dumping exports on the world market in 1933, starting that year with $1,023,750,000 worth of products.

JOBLESS SEEK GOLD IN HILLS OF CALIFORNIA

Many Prefer Digging for Wealth to Park Bench

San Francisco, —(UP)—A young man, with a week's growth of red whiskers in his chin, ordered a couple of shots of needed beer and two weeks' supply of food at a Magalia, Calif., store and drink emporium.

"Not getting rich, but I dug out $18.90 last month," he said, loading his provisions on his horse. "I eat, and that beats being jobless and hungry."

Grubstaker, of course, he preferred digging for gold to sitting on a park bench—and then there is always the possibility of striking it rich.

Lure of Lucky Strike

Unemployment driving them on, the lure of a lucky strike pulling them, many such men are laboring in lonely California canyons today. Some friend, or acquaintance, with a bit of gambling blood, provides the food, for a share of the profits. All that the miner supplies in brown and time, both a drug on the market elsewhere.

That is one side of a small boom in California gold mining.

Another factor is that the value of gold rises with the buying power of the dollar. Many small mines are being reopened, as the lower prices of labor, power and materials make it possible for them to operate at a profit for the first time since the war. There, of course, hire men and are a factor in reducing unemployment.

Big Mines Benefit

The big mines and dredgers—all those that produce the bulk of this state's $8,000,000 annual gold "crop"—benefit, too, make more profit and employ more men.

Revival of interest in mining also has brought a new interest in promotion of mining projects—some of them legitimate, some of them very doubtful. Many "lost channels" are being sought from the proceeds of stock sales, and here and there all through the mountains and along the mother lode, new tunnels and shafts are being opened.

Most of them will never pay a cent of profit, but some will make a little money, and there is always the big chance, you know.

At last, they give men work.

WALKER'S CHANCE AGAINST SHARKEY OF SLIMMEST KIND

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, July 22—(AP)—Mickey Walker, 170 pounds of fighting man, battles Jack Sharkey, burly Boston sailor, in a 15-round bout in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight with the Hearst Milk Fund as the principal beneficiary.

Sports writers who abandoned Mickey's nickname, "The Toy Bulldog" when the Rumson, N. J. battler graduated into the middleweight class will find it useful again tonight for that's what Walker will look like against a foe 30 pounds heavier and a full head taller.

The betting fraternity and the well-known experts concede Walker little chance against a foe to whom he must grant such overwhelming physical advantages. Neither, perhaps, do the fans but they are prepared to come out in large numbers on the chance that Mickey can overturn the odds.

Hopes for Big Gates
The advance sale early today had reached approximately $100,000 and the promoters were hopeful of a total gate of about $200,000. The crowd probably will reach 25,000.

Walker's principal talents lie in his courage, ability to take punishment, endurance and his punching power, especially with left hooks. But expert opinion credits Sharkey, long recognized as the best of the American heavyweights, with a heavier punch and greater all-around strength.

Sharkey must win—and win decisively—if he hopes to hold his front rank position among the heavyweights. A defeat by a foe so small as Mickey would demolish Sharkey's flint reputation so badly it probably could never again be repaired. A defeat for the sailor man almost certainly would cost him a chance at Max Schmeling and the world's heavyweight title.

For the first time in a major heavyweight bout the state commission's "no foul" edict will be in force. The bout probably will be put on about 9 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

other game by beating Chicago as Washington lost to Detroit, the Red Sox took a ten inning thriller from Cleveland and Wes Ferrell by a 3-2 count.

Minus their star slugger, Earl Webb, who put himself out of action by mistaking iodine for eyewash, the Sox slammed Ferrell for 13 hits and won out in the tenth when the Indian mound ace gave a pair of walks and Miller slapped a single through the infield. Hod Lisenbee and Wiley Moore limited the Indians to seven hits, the latter winning his second game of the series.

The Athletics fell on Vic Prasler for five runs in the second inning and brought the count against Chicago up to 10 to 5 at the finish. It was their eighth straight victory and their 13th of the year over the White Sox.

Washington's Senators dropped to eight games behind the champions when they blew a three run lead and Detroit pulled out a 4-3 decision in the ninth inning. Carl Fischer was unable to hold the early margin and Bump Hadley made one serious mistake in the ninth by pitching one ball that just suited Ray Hayworth. The Detroit catcher smacked it for a triple that drove in Koenig with the run that ended a seven game losing streak.

The showers which interrupted several games halted entirely the games between St. Louis and New York in the American League and Boston and Pittsburgh in the National. The Phillies and Cincinnati had an open date.

BABE RECOUPED
New York, July 22—(AP)—Thanks to Ben Chapman, Yankee speed merchant, Babe Ruth has recouped a betting loss of $120.

It all happened yesterday when the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns arrived at the stadium for their ball game which later was rained out.

The talk drifted to speedy runners. Somebody suggested that Myrl Hoag could beat Sam Byrd at 100 yards. The Babe bet on Hoag but Byrd was the winner. He picked Henry Johnson to outspeed Lyd Lary only to lose again. He backed Chad Kinsey of the Browns to beat Lou Gehrig. Kinsey was beaten badly. The Babe was out $120 by this time.

Then Chapman, the league's leading base stealer, and Dusty Cooke, reputedly the fastest man in the Yankee lineup, were coaxed into a race. The Babe saw a chance to get even so he put his $120 on Chapman, all of the other spectators picking Cooke. When it came to a race, Chapman won easily for Cooke, who has not been playing regularly, was not in condition.

The Babe was jubilant as he figured up his accounts and found he was even. The others were moaning. They thought Cooke hadn't tried.

"Sure he tried," said the Babe. "He's not in shape. That's what I was betting on."

Ten Years Ago Today—Scoring a sensational 289 to lead the field by nine strokes, Long Jim Barnes won the 21st annual National Open championship at Columbia Country Club in Washington, D. C. SPORT BRIEFS
Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Sad news for the entries in the 1931 national amateur golf championship.

A tournament committee for the Beverly Country Club, scene of the championship next month, has started out to make the course tougher than ever. More traps and bunkers have been added and the none too-easy greens have been massaged or leveled.

New York, July 22—(AP)—The 52-foot-yawl Dorade, skippered by Olin

J. Stephens of Scarsdale, N. Y., apparently has won the 3,000 mile ocean race from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, Eng.

Seventeen days after she left Newport, the Dorade slipped into Plymouth Sound last evening to beat her nine rivals to the finish line.

None of the others had arrived at Plymouth early today and only the Amberjack II, owned by Paul D. Rust, Jr., of Marblehead, Mass., had a chance to beat out the Dorade on corrected time.

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Helen Filkey, Chicago track star, has been classed a professional by the amateur athletic union because she sold medals and trophies for athletic meets.

Avery Brundage, President of the A. A. U., explained that inasmuch as selling of trophies to athletic meets by made athletes was banned that he could see no reason why the rule should not apply to the women.

Because of the ruling, Miss Filkey will not be permitted to compete in the national championships in New Jersey Saturday.

New York, July 22—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld the Federal injunction that granted Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois to restrain Primo Carnera from battling Jack Sharkey for a rival promoter.

The injunction, granted several weeks ago by Federal Judge John C. Knox, ordered Carnera not to meet Sharkey until the big Italian had fulfilled his contract with the Garden to battle the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling championship bout. This decision was appealed. The new decision has no actual effect now since Carnera recently signed a new contract to meet Schmeling. The German holder of the heavyweight title, however, called off this match because of an eye injury.

Carnera now may seek to recover a bond of $60,000, posted by the Garden, to assure Carnera of a bout with Schmeling in September.

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Betty Robinson may get in the 1932 Olympic games yet to defend her sprinting championship.

When the Northwestern University freshmen crashed in an airplane accident almost a month ago, it was feared she would never run again, but her physicians today held high hopes that she would completely recover within a year.

"Betty will be in a wheel chair and on crutches for many months, but we have every reason to be sure she will be ready to run again—and as fast as ever—within a year," her father, Harry Robinson, said. "The doctors tell me she will have no serious after effects and that her broken leg will be the same length as the other."

Miss Robinson is smiling through it all and showing amazing recovery, her physicians added.

Pasadena, Cal., July 22—(AP)—Bicycle races of the tenth Olympiad will be held in the famed Rose Bowl, scene of the New Year's football games, under terms of a contract, made public today.

A special track will be installed next spring with the approval of the International Cycling Federation. The Olympic Committee agreed to pay the city $217 a day for use of the Bowl.

Evanston, Ill., July 22—(AP)—Two sons of two noted golfing fathers faced each other today in the 36 hole final for the Chicago District Junior golf championship.

They were Jack Hutchinson, Jr., and Laurie Layton, Jr., whose fathers have been well known in tournament play for a score of years, especially the elder Hutchinson who once won the British open.

Young Layton swept into the finals yesterday by upsetting Winfield Day, the big favorite, 5 and 4, and Lefty Sheffins, 4 and 3; young Hutchinson defeated Wilbert Kokes, 3 and 2, and Emil Schmidt, 2 and 1.

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—The long fight to save Griffith Watkins' great thoroughbred, Inco, appeared hopeless today.

Dr. Joseph M. Kaiser, veterinarian, who has been treating the horse since it was injured at Washington Park a month ago, today said nothing much was left to do but to destroy the son of Sir Gallahad III. It was hoped to save him for the stud.

Three severe fractures were discovered in Inco's legs but a fight was made to save the horse at the request of turf lovers and Lloyd's of London, which insured him for $50,000.

Kansas City, July 22—(AP)—The Kansas City De Moly Rifle Club has been announced winner of the leg A competition of the National Rifle Association.

The event, entered by eight teams, was fired over a period of seven weeks and the results mailed here for compilation.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Kansas City; the Pella Rifle Club, Peoplis, Wis., and the Zumbro Valley Rifle Club, Waukegan, Minn., tied for second place, with five victories and two defeats.

Ranking of other contestants were: Dubuque, Ia., Rifle Club, third; the 186th Hospital Company team, Iowa City, Ia., fourth; the Newhalem Rifle Club, Rockport, Wash., fifth and the St. Edwards, Neb., Rifle Club, sixth.

Manchester, Mass., July 22—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, her game sharpened by the past two days of tournament was well on her way to a fourth victory in the annual invitation women's singles tennis tournament of the Essex Country Club.

Sharing the quarter final brackets with her were seven of the nation's first ten women tennis stars, but none of the survivors was conceded as good as an even chance to check the sweep of the former national champion.

Mrs. Moody still was having some difficulty with her service yesterday but she defeated Mrs. Mary Lammie, 6-1, 6-3, and Charlotte Miller, 6-2, 6-2.

Today's matches send Mrs. Moody against Virginia Hileary of Philadelphia; Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, Cal., against Mary Greef of Kansas City; Dorothy Weisel of Sacramento against Josephine Cruickshank of Pasadena; and Marjorie Morrill of Dedham against Sarah Palfrey of Brookline.

New York, July 22—(UP)—If Edward Patrick Walker—Mickey to you—is knocked kicking by Jack Sharkey tonight the last of what might be called the "Old Guard" will have been rubbed off the boxing landscape. For Mickey, even though he just turned 30 a few days ago, is the last surviving link between the present and those good old days when champions were champions and had plenty of color.

If you don't think Mickey is an old-timer at 30 take a look at the men who were champions when Mickey ascended the welterweight throne in 1922.

Jack Dempsey was in his prime, and ruled the heavyweight division with his weaving, bobbing, crouching and a left hand that exploded like a depth bomb. Battling Siki, who later was to die in a gutter with a knife hit deep in his back, was the light-heavyweight boss. The coal-black Senegalese fairly dripped color, whether sliding along the ropes or strutting the streets with his pet leopard cub.

Johnny Wilson was the middleweight ace, while the junior welterweight group was watched over by Pinkie Mitchell. Both these men long ago hung up their gloves.

The greatest of all the lightweights, cunning, shifty and hitting Benny Leonard had not yet thought of retiring, while Johnny Dundee, one of the ring's few genuine "iron men," was on top of the junior lightweight heap.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight; Joe Lynch, bantamweight; and Panchito Villa, flyweight, who died as he lived, by the ring, completed the list of champions when Walker first reached the top.

Contract the champions of today—Schmeling, Rosenbloom, Thompson, Canzoneri, Battalino and the rest—with those boys of 1922 and then say Walker has no right to boast of the "good old days."

Walker's "ancestry," however, will not win for him tonight. The Mick is a brawling, half-to-leather sort of fighter, with a heart as big as a grandfather's clock, but no fighter alive is going to spot the Sharkey man some 30 pounds in weight, and many inches in height and reach, and beat him. That's out on a limb and we'll sit on it.

The two fighters, by the way, are as different types as any two scrappers you can name offhand. Walker, beetle-browed, underslung, thick-lipped, pug-nosed, and with a neck like the trunk of a redwood looks like what the novelists would have us believe all fighters look. Mickey likes his fun straight and is not particular where he finds it.

Sharkey, handsome, and looking like nothing so much as he does a well-to-do business man (that's exactly what he is) has few marks to show for his many battles. The former sailor is strictly a family man and while the echo of the final bell rings in the rafters is off for Boston and his home. There he stays until the next fight.

Tonight's bout is the first "American heavyweight championship" fight since boxing gloves were introduced as a substitute for bare knuckles. Way back in 1880 one Paddy Ryan became the first American to hold the world's title by knocking out Joe Goss of England in the 87th round of a knuckle-to-knuckle engagement. Since that time the heavyweight crown stayed in this country until Max Schmeling's triumph, forced the promoters to invent the "American championship" gag to draw the customers through the gate.

Reports Of Shires Sale Are Premature
Chicago, July 22—(UP)—Reports that the Chicago Cubs are contemplating the purchase of Arthur (The Great) Shires from the Milwaukee American Association baseball club are "premature," President William Veck of the Cubs said today.

"I can not deny the report that Shires may be with the Cubs next year," Veck said. "We have scouts in the American Association and the contracts of any one of several players may be purchased before the opening of next season."

"However, the Cubs management has made no negotiation with the Milwaukee club and Milwaukee has made no overtures to us regarding the sale of Shires."

Shires is hitting .400 in the American Association, and it was reported here that Milwaukee will not consider letting him go until the end of the current season.

Mr. A. A. Of Chicago Has Shortest Name
Chicago, July 22—(UP)—The unofficial contest for the title, "man with the shortest name," appeared definitely ended today with the discovery that in Chicago is a man whose name is A. A.

"That's just as short as you can make 'em unless some guy pops up with a name like O. O., and all he could do would be to tie me," said A in advancing his claim to the honor.

Since the death several days ago of H. P. Re at Coldwater, Mich., many persons have claimed the right to succeed to the title which he claimed for many years.

While no contest rules have been adopted, Re's use of initials only, has been taken as a precedent which makes A, whose first name is Aaron, the winner in a walk.

Before A settled the question, some of the other claimants were Ed Fy, who is in jail at Newcastle Ind.; C. Au of Clinton, Ia.; J. Ur of Torrington, Conn.; and C. Ek of Duluth, Minn. Some others who gave up when the really short names were tossed into the race were Fin Ax of Indianapolis, S. Uva, C. Utz, and A. Utt, all of Chicago.

AMERICAN BANKS AGREE TO LATEST PLAN OF HOOVER

British Financiers Are Also Sympathetic In Their Reception

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD

United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1931, by United Press) Washington, July 22—(UP)—The United Press was informed today on the highest authority that leading American bankers have agreed—contingent on similar action by bankers of other important financial powers—not to withdraw advances, deposits or credits from Germany for the present.

By so agreeing, these bankers have accepted tentatively President Hoover's latest proposal to safeguard Germany's financial structure. Their action is considered highly important. Officials estimate that of the $1,200,000,000 of short term credits now extended Germany, fully half—$600,000,000—is held in the United States. A very large proportion of this amount, it is said, is controlled by large international bankers in New York.

At the seven-power conference of government heads at London yesterday, Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of Treasury Mellon submitted the latest Hoover plan to Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan.

Its high point was the proposal that international bankers should agree to maintain existing credits while Germany took strict measures to prevent a "flight from the mark."

Cooperation Assured
Before the proposal was launched, it is understood, the administration was assured by the larger New York banks that they would cooperate.

According to reliable information here, Acting Secretary of Treasury Ogden Mills recently discussed the necessity of maintaining German credits with George L. Harrison, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, and other metropolitan financiers. His efforts are said to have been supplemented by Senator Dwight W. Morrow, well-known financial expert. Morrow has been assisting Mr. Hoover with the details of his plan.

As the result of conferences with these two officials and of other conferences among themselves, about a dozen of the strongest New York financial institutions agreed to maintain existing German credits.

Their action, it is understood, was contingent on similar steps by other world banking centers.

French Share Small
Willingness of the large American bankers to accept the plan, combined with the favorable British attitude toward it, seem virtually to assure its success—unless political barriers are raised at London. Between them, the United States and Britain control a large majority of short-term credits to Germany. The French share is relatively small—only about five per cent, or $60,000,000.

The Hoover plan, as advanced at London yesterday, contained four main points:

1. International cooperation by bankers to maintain short term credits to Germany.

2. Firm action by German officials to protect the mark.

3. A study by an international committee of Germany's needs for immediate further credit.

4. Development during the next six or eight months of plans to convert a proportion of short-term credits into long-term credits.

The proposal is under discussion now at London. Officials here said no definite action has yet been taken upon it.

Due, perhaps to the exigencies of diplomacy, a ludicrous situation was created by announcement of the Hoover plan. Written copies of it were made public after Acting Secretary of State Castle assured himself by long-distance telephone that it had been presented to the London conference. But when accounts of the plan reached London, Stimson was reported to have denied that any such plan had been presented.

Stimson stood by his statement despite repeated official assurances to the press from the White House and State Department that the proposals had been submitted to the other powers in London.

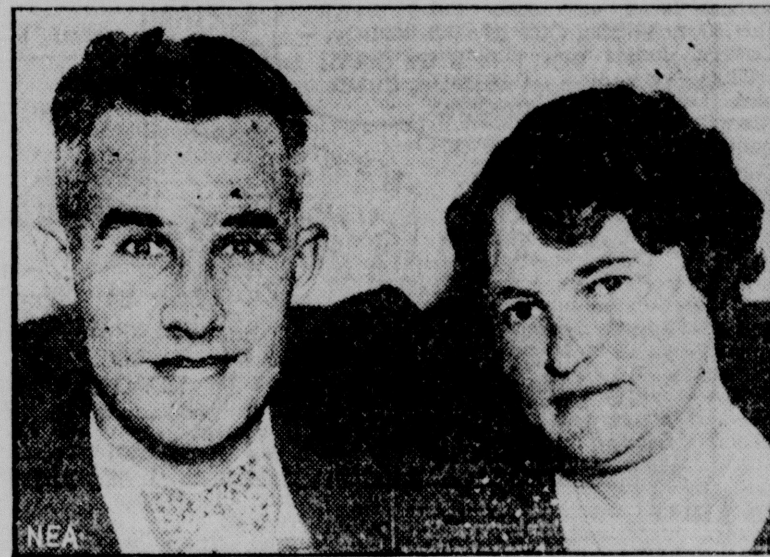

Two explanations of Stimson's attitude were forthcoming yesterday, that he considered he had submitted an informal "proposal" rather than a "plan" and so felt justified in denying existence of the latter. Second, that the meeting of statesmen was secret—or "executive"—and Stimson felt honor bound to reveal nothing which went on there.

Husbands and Wives Exchange

Mr. Stevens and the new Mrs. Stevens, formerly Mrs. Spotswood.

Trading wives and children as casually as an ordinary business transaction, F. L. Stevens and George E. Spotswood, friends of Pomona, Cal., exchanged their families to the satisfaction of all concerned. Each couple has two children, a boy and a girl, the eldest being 19 years of age. While Mr. Spotswood and the new Mrs. Stevens were in Nevada fixing things up, Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Spotswood took care of the four children. The two couples, as things stand now, are shown here.

Mr. Spotswood and the new Mrs. Spotswood, formerly Mrs. Stevens.

conversion to professional ranks he has put on an amazing comeback, for a tall elderly gentleman whose future was supposed to be well behind him.

The Tilden hat walloped Richards with such consummate ease on a quiet Sunday afternoon in July would be a 4 to 1 to beat Doeg, Shields or any other American; at least even money to "take" Henri Cochet, the one-time Nemesis of Big Bill.

POLO SPREADS—The sensational growth of polo in the United States within the past few years shows no signs of slackening during a period that has hit other branches of athletic activity.

The galloping game is one of the oldest of known sports, going back to the times when they used a stylus to mark up the scores, but it has caught the popular American fancy only in recent years, beyond some of the more cloistered eastern confines.

The University of Arizona boys went home after their round trip to New York with renewed zeal for pushing polo's development in the far west among the collegians.

Chicago has witnessed its first international play, featuring the Argentinians. The Black Hills polo association has just been organized to promote competition in South Dakota and Nebraska, where the army outposts help to stimulate interest.

Meanwhile, the eastern sectors are warming up for the high-goal competition that will find nearly all of the top-ranking American horsemen in action, led by the boss mallet wielder of them all, Tommy Hitchcock.

ARMY NAVY RUMORS—Old Man Football is still in the bullpen, warming up for an early getaway, but there is an occasional suggestion around Broadway these mid-summer days that the Army and Navy are "on the verge" of patching it up again.

The service rivals haven't tossed anything at each other, except pleasant words, since they joined hands in celebrating the Poughkeepsie regatta victory of the sailors.

It is understood the Navy wants to move one of its outstanding football games to New York this year, perhaps the contest with Southern Methodist, now booked for Baltimore, November 21, the week before the Army plays Notre Dame in the Big Ten.

No doubt S. M. U. would be willing, inasmuch as the Texans are looking for "spots." The only metropolitan opposition on November 21 is the Fordham-Bucknell contest.

Tax Collectors In Germany Bear Down
Berlin, July 22—(AP)—Germany's tax collectors worked today on orders to get what was coming to the government and pay no attention to the excuses of taxpayers in arrears.

The orders, set forth in a government decree, directed collectors to proceed ruthlessly and to make allowances for the hard times in only the most exceptional cases.

The decree established heavy penalties for citizens who are back in their taxes or have made faulty declarations. Recently there has been an alarming reduction in tax collections. The penalties become effective July 31 against all those still shy on their income taxes.

The government also ordered all persons living in Germany, as well as all incorporated companies, to offer whatever foreign currencies or credits they may have to the Reichsbank or allied institutions before July 29, providing their holdings approximate $5,000.

The Reichsbank is to decide whether to take over such funds. Persons owning less than $5,000 will be called on later, the decree said.

SPORT SLANTS
By ALAN GOULD
"I have seen Big Bill Tilden play championship tennis for upwards of a dozen years," remarked a veteran of the journalistic wars upon leaving the Forest Hills stadium after Big Bill walloped Vincent Richards in the professional finals, "but I never saw him play better than he did today. He was, in my opinion, unbeatable, by pro or amateur."

Dempsey, Jones, Cobb, Speaker, Milburn, Tunney and others have retired from the competitive arena, where they were in the way contemporaries of Tilden in the golden age of American sport.

Yet Big Bill carries on not with mere gestures, but with as magnificent a display of tennis artistry as he has ever seen. Tilden is 38. His trick knee was handicapping him as far back as 1928, when he lost the American championship.

The youngsters of American amateur ranks finally caught up with him last September, but since his conversion to professional ranks he has put on an amazing comeback, for a tall elderly gentleman whose future was supposed to be well behind him.

The Tilden hat walloped Richards with such consummate ease on a quiet Sunday afternoon in July would be a 4 to 1 to beat Doeg, Shields or any other American; at least even money to "take" Henri Cochet, the one-time Nemesis of Big Bill.

BOOTLEGGERS MEET
New York, July 22—(AP)—The New York American says today that run runners and bootleggers of the Atlantic seaboard are in convention at a hotel in an attempt to stabilize liquor prices.

The newspaper says one run runner complained that a competitor had cut his price from $3 to $2.50 a case transported to shore from run r.w.

In 1924 while with Salt Lake City, O'Doul decided to turn outfielder. He batted .392 that season. After he hit .378 for San Francisco in 1927 the New York Giants bought him.

In his first year with the Giants O'Doul batted .319, but was a great disappointment to John J. McGraw who sent him to the Phillies along with a bundle of cash for Fred Leach. The following season O'Doul outbatted Leach by more than 100 points, causing additional anguish for McGraw.

Early Season Slump
The Robins gave Pitchers Elliott and Dudley and Outfielder Lee and considerable cash for O'Doul and Fresno Thompson, second baseman, at the close of last season. Manager Robinson thought O'Doul would give the Robins the batting punch to win the pennant but it was O'Doul's early slump which was partly responsible for their slow start.

O'Doul's career is almost without parallel in baseball. He started as a southpaw pitcher and 13 years ago had his first major league try-out with the New York Yankees. After two seasons with the Yankees he was shipped back to the Pacific Coast, but recalled in 1922 and then sent to the Boston Red Sox.

In 1924 while with Salt Lake City, O'Doul decided to turn outfielder. He batted .392 that season. After he hit .378 for San Francisco in 1927 the New York Giants bought him.

In his first year with the Giants O'Doul batted .319, but was a great disappointment to John J. McGraw who sent him to the Phillies along with a bundle of cash for Fred Leach. The following season O'Doul outbatted Leach by more than 100 points, causing additional anguish for McGraw.

Texas Rangers Barricade Bridge

With the controversy between Texas and Oklahoma over the question of free and toll bridges at a high pitch, Texas Rangers are shown here barricading the southern end of the new free bridge across the Red river at Denison, Tex., and Durant, Oklahoma, after Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma attempted to route traffic over the span. The sign calls attention to an injunction obtained by toll bridge advocates. The four men shown in the foreground are Captain Tom R. Hickman, Adjutant General W. W. Sterling of Texas; W. H. Kirby and J. P. Huddleston of the Texas Rangers.

Riots In Santiago Chile Are Serious

Santiago, Chile, July 22—(UP)—Serious riots occurred in the streets of Santiago early today as Chile's third cabinet within less than two weeks was sworn in at 1 A. M.

The demonstrators sought to dissuade members of the new cabinet from accepting posts in the government formed by Francisco Garcias Gana. They stoned the Casa Del Pueblo and proceeded 2,000 strong to the residence of Miguel Letelier, new Minister of Interior.

A representation was made that Letelier reject the cabinet post. His name, however, as in the list of Ministers given out in the new cabinet, during a hectic night.

Another group stoned the house of Ismael Edwards Matte, Liberal Party Deputy. He is a brother of the new Foreign Minister, Guillermo Edwards Matte. Windows in the house were smashed.

The mob was shouting through the streets and was followed by gay señoritas in motor cars, adding a festive touch to the demonstration.

The new cabinet, organized after hurried consultations, was formed by Francisco Garcias Gana, who also held the post of Finance Minister. Others named in his cabinet included Letelier as Minister of Interior and Education; Guillermo Edwards Matte, Foreign Affairs, Commerce, Justice and Colonies; Hector Boccardo, Social Welfare; General Charpin, War; and Admiral Marian, Navy.

Edwardo Covarrubian was expected to be named Minister of Public Works.

Blanquiere's cabinet resigned, a government announcement said, because of the disqualification of certain members to grant further extraordinary powers to the government.

During its few days in office, the cabinet had re-established freedom of the press and constitutional guarantees.

Excursionist Shot By Customs Officer
Detroit, July 22—(AP)—An excursion steamer with 1,000 members of a church young people's society on board became the center of a brush between liquor runners and U. S. Customs Border Patrolmen on the Detroit river last night, and one of the shots fired wounded an excursionist in the arm.

The fugitive speedboat and its crew of two escaped into Canadian waters, having dumped a part of its cargo.

The consensus of witnesses to the fast moving drama was that the shot which wounded Arthur Gajski, 23, on the steamer Ste. Claire, probably ricocheted from the hull of the rum boat as it sped past the steamer. The Ste. Claire's rail was lined with merrymakers, who had deserted the dance floor to watch the chase.

MURDER ATTEMPT FAILS
Bombay, India, July 22—(UP)—A futile attempt was made today to assassinate Sir John Hotsen, Acting Governor of Bombay.

A student of Ferguson College at Poona fired two shots at Hotsen, but missed.

WAR ON JAPAN PROPOSAL MADE BY CHINA CHIEF

Urged All China Unite To Declare War On Jap Government

Hongkong, July 22—(AP)—The insurgent Canton government today announced receipt of a telegram from Chang Kueh-Liang, Governor of Manchuria, in behalf of Chiang Kai-Shek, President of the Nationalist government, in which the latter conditionally offered to resign and suggested that all China unite in declaring war upon Japan.

The telegram assertedly proposed in behalf of Chiang that all provinces in China contribute toward sending 500,000 troops to the Korean border as a military operation against Japan. Since the Canton government was represented as not approving the war proposal, the telegram as yet has not been answered.

President Chang, whose retirement was set forth as one of the principal purposes of the formation of the Canton government, was represented in the telegram as being willing to resign the Nationalist presidency, but desired to remain as Commander-in-Chief of the Nanjing Army and Navy.

Chiang was quoted as having suggested the elevation of Hu Han-Ming to the chairmanship of the Amoy Military Council, the highest office of the Nationalist government, now held by Chiang himself. The Nationalist chief also proposed, according to the message, the selection of Wang Ching-Wel, Leftist leader, as head of the Kuomintang or People's party.

The People's party is the political organization behind the Nationalist regime. The organizers of the Canton government are for the most part members of the Kuomintang who bolted the party because of their opposition to Chiang Kai-Shek. They sought his defeat on the ground that he had schemed to establish an autocracy instead of working for a full-fledged republic, the original goal of the revolution.

The Canton government appointed C. C. Wu, former Chinese Nationalist Minister to the United States, as Chief Justice of the southern government's Supreme Court and head of its judicial department. Wu recently resigned as Nationalist Minister to the United States because of his sympathy with the Canton cause.

Washington, July 22—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission suspended hearings on the railroads' application for a fifteen per cent increase in freight rates to permit the opposition to prepare its case.

The action was taken late yesterday after attorneys had argued for hours on whether the hearings should be continued without interruption until August 31. Railroad representatives maintained the proceedings should continue, while attorneys for the opposition claimed they needed time for study.

No date was set for resumption of the hearings. However, Commission

"WHAT A MAN" IS FACED WITH SUIT FOR DAMAGES NOW

A Third Court Action Is Filed Against Ma's Recent Husband

Los Angeles, July 22—(AP)—A $250,000 breach of promise suit was on file here today against Guy Edward Hudson, making the third legal action involving him since he went through a marriage ceremony recently with Mrs. Minnie A. Kennedy, mother of Albee Semple McPherson, evangelist.

The breach of promise case was filed yesterday by Mrs. Ebbel Lee Parker Harbert, who asserted Hudson had refused to marry her after winning her love and taking her on a pre-nuptial trip in 1929.

While Hudson had the new suit to worry him, Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson was preparing to go to court tomorrow to have her name lopped off at the hyphen. She filed suit last week for annulment of the marriage. The couple was married last month at Longview, Wash., in a picturesque moonlight setting on the banks of a lake.

Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson's annulment petition alleged that at the time of her marriage to Hudson he was already legally wedded to Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson. The latter has filed suit for divorce, her action following the annulment suit brought by Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson.

While the three suits are on file in local courts, announcement was made in Cowlitz county, Washington, by Prosecutor Cecil C. Hallin that he was looking for witnesses to testify to the marriage of Mrs. Newton-Hudson as a step toward the possible prosecution of Hudson on a bigamy charge.

AIMEE MARRIES SON
Los Angeles, July 22—(AP)—Ralph McPherson, son of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and his bride the former Lorna Dee Smith, of Alva, Okla., were honeymooning today.

They were married by Mrs. McPherson before an audience of 5,500 last night at Angelus Temple, headquarters of the "Four Square Gospel" church. The ceremony was broadcast and followed a two-hour program which included light opera, drama and vaudeville.

A daughter of the evangelist, Roberta Semple Smyth, and her newly acquired husband, William B. Smyth, former ship's purser, who were to have been bridesmaid and best man, were withdrawn from the wedding party list.

Smyth decided recently he would not enter Temple work and got a job keeping books for an automobile concern.

American Musicians Win Hollywood Event
Los Angeles, July 22—(UP)—American music composers won all three first places in the fourth annual Hollywood Bowl prize composition contest, it was announced today.

Arne Oldberg, Chicago, won the $1,000 award for a piano concerto with orchestra. Second choice was a violinello concerto with orchestra written by Alois Reiser, Hollywood, and third choice was a symphonic heroic poem, "Aeronaut" by Radie Britain, Chicago.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CAPTER XXV

THE word went from mouth to mouth. "The Prince! The Prince is here!"

No one had been sure he was coming. The great Hunt ball had been an annual affair in Willow Springs since the first fur kings and railroad barons had built their Victorian palaces there back in the 'nieties. It was always a gala event even in the rarified atmosphere of that gilded township. That its date coincided with the visit of His Royal Highness was pure chance. No one had been certain he would actually be present. But here he was.

Liane, in a frothy frock of petal chiffon cut demurely low to show her young shoulders was staying close to the kindly Mrs. Cleeppaugh. There was about this atmosphere something definitely intimidating. The elegant voices, the assured manners which were not manners at all but subtle rudeness, the massaged, scented and exquisitely dressed women frightened and chilled her. She thought, "Is it possible I am ever to enter this circle really as an intimate?" The idea vaguely terrified her.

Clive, at her elbow, said, "Dance this?"

She looked up at him, grateful for his nearness, for the sense of rightness and security his presence afforded her. As she gave herself, quite impersonally, to his embrace she thought that life would not be such a bad thing with this young man by her side. They threaded their way through the mazes of the music.

Clive's arm tightened around her. How well he danced! He said, "Sorry," and steered her deftly around a cruising pair, a plump matron in sea green velvet and her languid escort. Liane thought for an instant that the tightening of his arm had been an impulsive movement. Her pulse had quickened a little at the thought. With disappointment she realized he was only being instinctively gallant, trying to avoid a collision which had seemed imminent.

Strang, strange young man, she reflected. A little puzzled she was.

that he had never tried to "make love" to her. Did he think her so unattractive? Well, she mustn't quarrel with her fate. He had asked her to marry him and she, for reasons of her own, had agreed.

The murmur ran along the line. "The Prince! A discreet, polite, marmur. And after an instant, in the suddenly cleared doorway, he appeared. A tall, very thin, rather supercilious looking young man with pale brown hair and a monocle glazing one of his sharp brown eyes. He was in a dress uniform of silver and blue.

THE orchestra in response to a hidden signal struck up the young notable's national air. He smiled. He clicked his heels and bowed from the waist. Liane heard the plump, green velvet matron murmur "Adorable!" in swooning accents. The Prince put out his arm to one of the ladies in his party and the dance began again as suddenly as it had stopped.

"Getting tired?" Clive wanted to know. Liane shook her head. She danced dreamily, casually. The throb of the music was in her blood. It was like an enchantment. Abruptly she felt her partner's arm about her loins. She looked up into the grinning face of Chuck Desmond, who had said "Cut" to Clive.

"You!" she gasped, startled.

"The kid himself," Desmond acknowledged. "I crashed this party with His Nibs. Was he a correspondent in Slavia when his father was in power. He makes me drag along wherever he goes and the boss doesn't mind. It gives me the inside track."

"It's nice to see you," Liane told him. And indeed this young man whom Muriel had once described as "depressing" seemed more than ever like a friend and brother to-night.

"You're pretty easy on the eye yourself, Lovely," he told her admiringly. "Nice doodads you're sporting."

Liane looked down at the pearls on her wrist. "They are," she agreed. "They've been in my family for years. They're so precious I'm afraid to wear them, really, but he wanted me to tonight."

"So you're joining up with the Junior League?" Chuck Desmond murmured. "How do you think you'll like it?"

Liane flushed and looked away. She said "Tell me about the Prince. What's he really like?"

Chuck Desmond said shrewdly, "I didn't mean to butt in. Sorry. Well, he's a swell guy but not at a racket like this. Too hacha-cha. He's on parade. Can't be himself."

Desmond said "Cheery-ho" as Clive, somewhat stiffly, cut in again.

"Known that fellow long?" Clive asked in a voice just a shade too casual.

"I met him at the theatre last summer," Liane explained. "He's nice. Lot of fun."

Clive said "Hum" in a noncommittal manner. Liane almost giggled. She had never before seen him give an impersonation of the protective male.

She was sitting in the Cleeppaugh box a few moments later when Desmond and that resplendent figure appeared in the doorway.

"His Highness wishes to be presented to mademoiselle," muttered the newspaper man, an audacious gleam in his eye. Clive had risen, stood glowering.

But Mrs. Cleeppaugh was plainly delighted. Great lady that she was, she found room in her heart to defer to royalty.

"Mademoiselle honors me with this dance?" The Prince inquired after the formalities had been completed.

LIANE went down the long stairway with her gloved fingers resting lightly on the arm of that sky blue jacket. She passed Tressa who favored her with a cool, interested stare. Tressa was sinuous and lovely in black.

She thought childishly that it would be nice if Van Robard might be there to see her dancing with the Prince. Make him sorry—Sorry for what?

All this seemed the veriest fabric of a dream. The room, the shimmering fabrics, the music, the scent of rare perfumes. Most unreal of all seemed Liane herself, an insubstantial figure in pale rose gossamer, treading the measure with a prince of the blood. "In half a minute," she thought, "I'll wake up to find myself on the folding bed in the apartment, reaching for the alarm clock and dashing to get breakfast."

His Highness said, "Mademoiselle waites as if on air."

Liane smiled up at him. "It is my partner who dances well," she returned.

She thought, I'm Cinderella. What if the clock strikes 12? They danced into a little covert of chrysanthemums and silken hangings. "Rest?" her escort asked. "One grows fatigued?"

"Not at all," Liane assured him. But already he was drawing out a little gilt chair, offering her a cigar.

"Mademoiselle does not wish? But how refreshing!" He murmured at her. "Ah, this is pleasant."

They were a little withdrawn from the ballroom. The music came to them faintly muted. Liane thought of Clive whose blue eyes would search the dancers for her in vain.

The Prince lifted a curtain which concealed a little door. "This leads to the balcony," he said softly. "Let us find ourselves some air. I perish here."

The tiny winding stair indeed led to tiny gallery with French windows. "Ah, you are cold," murmured the prince, noting that Liane shivered.

GERMANY'S PLANS FOR RESTORATION OF CREDITS TOLD

Acting Chancellor Tells What His Country Hopes To Do

(Editor's Note:—Germany's plans for pulling herself out of financial chaos, and using money which may be loaned to her for rehabilitating her internal finances and industries, are explained in the following interview with Herman Dietrich, Finance Minister and Acting Chancellor in the absence of Chancellor Brüning. The interview was given to Robert J. Bender, Vice-President and General News Manager of the United Press, just before Bender left Berlin for Russia, where he will study conditions there.)

By ROBERT J. BENDER (Copyright, 1931, By United Press) Berlin, July 19.—(Sunday)—(UP)—Germany will pay her private debts first and foremost, Finance Minister Herman Dietrich said today.

Dietrich, who is Acting Chancellor in the absence of Dr. Heinrich Brüning, outlined frankly in an interview Germany's plans for utilizing credits which may be granted by the powers. Such credits, he said, afford Germany any immediate benefit.

He made it clear that Germany is not drifting aimlessly but is determined to steer a planned course by means of the Paris and London conferences. He also revealed Germany's attitude toward several of the reported political demands of the French.

Germany's plan, he explained, is to use credits from abroad for internal debts and eventually for the benefit of industry, so that Germany may rehabilitate herself and place the country on a sound basis from within.

Need Breathing Space

"The redoubt credit we are discussing at London," he said, "is needed for a breathing space to bring our banking and credit systems into shape. One aim is to replace loan discount credit by a long-term loan of the same amount, but it would be childish to assume it can be accomplished in two days at London. We plan that the redoubt credit will not be used merely to serve to cover the normal note circulation.

"Employment of the loan to pay the short-term foreign debt would afford no relief to Germany and bring no new capital to the country, so we are determined to use it for internal debts, notably those of the states and communes and eventually of industry—a procedure that would liberate a corresponding sum at home, which would replenish the depleted monetary credit, supply private banks and savings banks and place fresh credit at the disposal of business.

"Simultaneously, a long-term foreign loan, because it would be paid to the Reichsbank in the form of foreign currency, would give the Reichsbank an opportunity to increase the bank note circulation."

Gets Little Sleep

The Vice-Chancellor, a genial host inclined to stockiness, with grey hair, a grey moustache and smiling eyes, told how he had not slept over four hours a night since the outbreak of the crisis with the exception of only one or two nights. Once he retired at 12:30 a. m. but a phone call at 1 a. m. recalled him for a cabinet meeting.

He referred to what he believed to have been a remark by the famous English statesman Disraeli to the effect that there are two things that drive men mad—love and worrying about money.

Certainly his present financial troubles have not floored Dietrich. The interview was held in the parlor of his own residence—not government house, which was recently abandoned for reasons of economy. While his talk was mostly technical and serious, Herr Dietrich's comments were flavored by frequent light passages. He personally poured the afternoon coffee, explaining it was harmless as a stimulant.

Contrasting the present crisis with that of 1923 in Germany, Dietrich emphasized that Germany is now suffering from deflation, not from inflation. He added that the deflation was due to the loss of gold cover for German banknote circulation. France, he recalled with only two-thirds of the German population and one-half the German industry, has over twice Germany's note circulation.

He expressed hope that France's participation in the London conference means that France is convinced of a new era of Franco-German collaboration is possible and that Germany is acting in good faith, so that the French government is content the French people will subscribe to a new loan for Germany.

Must Pay Debts

"Germany is now in a position where private debts have largely been called. It is a point for us to pay those debts. Whether or to what extent payment of our political debts is possible in addition to payment of the private debts cannot now be discussed. As an industrial country we must undertake every effort in our own interest to pay private debts, because otherwise we would not be able to maintain our foreign trade."

He replied diplomatically to a question concerning the German attitude towards Germany's suspending building of her second "pocket battleship."

"In order to avoid becoming completely defenseless," he said, "Germany is obliged to take advantage of the opportunities which the Versailles treaty offers—opportunities which are most limited and which left Germany very little power."

In conclusion, he was asked how the German government reacted to the French proposal for a ten-year Franco-German political truce during which Germany presumably would be bound not to seek revision of the Versailles treaty. He replied: "Germany is determined to pursue its objective only by peaceful means. Consequently, I cannot state our attitude towards the proposals for a truce, the contents of which I do not know."

EIGHT CRUISERS OF NEW TYPE ARE PROVEN UNSTEADY

Navy Department Works to Correct Defects in Construction

Washington, July 22.—(UP)—Eight new American cruisers of the type over which developed the dispute which almost disrupted the London naval conference, have been found so unsteady in a running sea that their gun crews work is hampered. Alterations to eliminate this will be made.

The difficulty lies in a peculiarity of roll. The eight vessels represent an expenditure of about $136,000,000. The proneness to a jerky roll in a seaway is the third of a series of defects discovered in design of this class of craft. The cruisers are of 10,000 tons, bearing 8-inch guns.

The Navy Department has acknowledged that the foregoing conditions exist. Officers said cost of alterations had not been estimated but that compared with cost of the vessels it would not be large.

First complaints against design of this type of craft came from persons quartered aft. They said vibration was terrific at high speeds. This was not a matter of major importance, but in later designs considerable attention was devoted to eliminating vibration.

Later during trial runs, stern posts of five cruisers cracked. They are being replaced at a cost of $18,000 each. With one exception this charge will fall upon the builder and not upon the government.

Target practice apparently developed the extent of trouble which might arise from the peculiarity of the cruiser's roll. It interfered with gunnery from the affected ships.

To Eliminate Rolling

The United Press was informed that the department that efforts to eliminate the rolling tendency were underway on the cruisers Pensacola and Northampton at the New York and Norfolk navy yards, respectively. Despite faults in construction, the Navy contends that these 10,000-ton vessels are the best of their kind in naval construction.

A naval constructor explained the changes were necessitated principally because these vessels are the first of their type ever built here. The inclination to roll, he said, was largely due to efforts to design ships which could withstand a maximum of punishment in battle. To this end the weight of the vessels was so distributed that they would not readily capsize even on partial flooding.

Larger bilge keels and stabilizing tanks are being installed in the Pensacola and Northampton. Naval constructors hope these devices will correct the roll without making the cruisers less able under punishment. President Hoover and his naval advisers split over this type of cruiser prior to the London treaty. The Navy General Board wanted at least 21. Mr. Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson went down to 18. Stimson returned from London with a treaty which permits 15 to be built and allows three additional 10,000-ton cruisers for the United States provided this country proportionately reduces tonnage devoted to smaller 6-inch gun cruisers.

Seven additional 10,000-ton cruisers to complete the authorized 15 are under construction and are to leave the ways with the faults of their sisters corrected.

LOUIS L. EMMERSON GOVERNOR OF ILLINOIS, SAYS:—

"Organized crime has become one of the most vital problems of the day. Individual crime is only the outward manifestation of the antisocial individual. It is local, and can have little bearing on the general welfare of the nation; but organized crime, against society and against the home. It must be stamped out if democratic government is to continue to exist.

"Such a situation is the product of indifference, of a shrinking of responsibility. Now, awakening to the menace of such conditions, we are looking around for the cause. It cannot be found in the law itself, nor in the courts, but in the people of the nation. The real secret of the increase in crime rests in the fact that for years past we have been too busy with our own successes and failures to take the interest in public affairs necessary to success in a government.

"Perhaps we do not realize that we, as individuals, pay the penalty. Yet we pay for crime in the expenses of operating our courts, our police stations and penal institutions, and in the charitable aid which we are forced to give to the families of incarcerated men."
